Clemson Memorial Stadium
PARENTS' DAY

Today's Features

5 Terrance Roulhac

Clemson's four-year starter at the wide receiver position is very high on a number of career lists. A player with outstanding speed, he has come a long way since Chuck Reedy first laid eyes on him as a high school tight end in Jacksonville. Tim Match profiles Clemson's leading receiver.

7 Bill Spiers

Clemson has had a lot of successful two-sport athletes in recent years. Bill Spiers was not planning on being one of them until he read an article in a newspaper. Annabelle Vaughan reconstructs the chain of events that led Spiers to the starting punter slot.

52 Death Valley

Memorial Stadium is better known as Death Valley. Sam Blackman will tell you why that is the case, and many other interesting stories about the building of Memorial Stadium, its development and its recent additions.

55 Why Clemson

Clemson is one of the more popular places in the south for students, over 7,000 prospective students apply for only 2,500 spots each year. Here are some student comments on what strikes them about Clemson.

64 Piccolo Award Candidate

Ray Williams' football career was in serious jeopardy this time two months ago. After wondering if he would even play baseball this year, he is back on the football field. Kassie Kessinger profiles Clemson's Brian Piccolo Award candidate.

77 Operation Haylift

This summer was one of the worst ever for South Carolina farmers. The Clemson Extension Service helped provide some relief when it coordinated distribution of hay provided by generous midwestern farmers. Danny McNeill tells us about the long hours of preparation.

81 Clemson Swimming

The Tiger men's program won its first ACC title last year and the Lady Tigers finished seventh in the nation at the NCAA meet. Clemson aquatics are in good hands under ACC Coach-of-the-Year Bob Boettner, as Tim Match explains.

82 Tigers in the Pros

Clemson is one of the top contributors to the NFL every year. Here is a rundown by Tim Bourret of the current Clemson alumni in the pro ranks.

111 Deaf Valley

Six years ago today the Clemson fans had more than a routine impact on the outcome of a game. Foster Senn takes us back to a 1980 game with VPI and recounts some other interesting games on this date.

TODAY'S GAME

by Kassie Kessinger

Today's game marks the 34th renewal of the Clemson-Citadel series which began 75 years ago (1909). The Tigers hold a commanding 27-5-1 advantage, including a string of 12 consecutive wins that dates back to 1932. The 1931 Bulldog club is the last Citadel crew to lay claim to a Tiger victory winning 6-0 in Florence, SC.

Eight seasons have lapsed since the Bulldogs and Tigers clashed, as Clemson romped to a 58-3 triumph in its first game of that '78 campaign. A milestone was reached that day as Clemson clinched its 100th victory in Memorial Stadium. That '78 club went on to compile a 11-1 worksheet and capture a Gator Bowl Championship. The 58-point outburst by the Tigers remains the second highest point total by a Clemson team in the last 30 years.

Four coaches in today's game, including Clemson's head coach Danny Ford and The Citadel's head mentor Tom Moore, were on the same sidelines in the 1978 contest as Ford was the offensive line coach, while Moore coached the Tiger receivers. Clemson's present running back coach Chuck Reedy and the Bulldogs defensive coordinator Danny Smith, also were along Clemson's sideline for the last meeting between these two clubs.

Neither Ford nor Moore own a victory over the other's respective school as a head coach. Ford looks to add on to his 60-22-2 nine-year Clemson record, while Moore seeks his 37th overall coaching win and 18th at The Citadel. Moore is 17-19-1 in four years at The Citadel and 36-41-1 in eight seasons as a head coach.

* * * * *

The Clemson Tigers enter today's game with a 2-1 overall mark, 1-0 skein in the ACC. After suffering a disappointing season-opening 20-14 loss at home to Virginia Tech, the Tigers have a two-game win streak after collecting a pair of road wins over No. 10 Georgia (31-28) and

The Citadel marks Clemson's first opponent for the month of October, and if the past is any indication of how Clemson will perform during this month, it could be a month of joy for the Tigers. Since Ford assumed control of the Tiger gridgers they are 24-4 during the Halloween month. And over the last nine years the Tigers are 33-4 during this month as they went 9-0 before Ford took over.

Clemson's offense has really come of age the last two weeks, and its recent Georgia Tech (27-3) last week. Of the 18 seasons in which Clemson has had to play Georgia and Georgia Tech on the road, the Tigers have won both games with the Georgia schools just three times in this century. Clemson turned the trick in 1903 and 1977 and now Danny Ford has had one of his teams whip both Georgia and Georgia Tech on the road in the same season.

Coach Ford seems to have little trouble in keeping his team from succumbing to a letdown after a big win. In fact, Ford's record in games that are played the week after Clemson has tied or defeated a top 20 team is 11-1. The only blemish was at Georgia in 1982 after Clemson had knocked off fourth-ranked Nebraska in the Orange Bowl to claim the national championship.

success can be attributed to the outstanding play up front. Cited as the Tigers' greatest question mark heading into the season, this brigade of youngsters (only one senior has played so far in one of the three games) has paved the way for Tiger running backs to gain 255.7 yards per game and rush for six scores. Led upfront by All-ACC candidate John Phillips at guard, Clemson has gained over 200 yards rushing in each of the last 11 games, setting a school record for consecutive games rushing for at least 200 yards.

In fact, Clemson has had at least 200 yards rushing in every game Phillips has started at Clemson. In the previous 10 games to his insertion into the lineup (dating back to 1984), Clemson averaged just 176 yards per game on the ground. Phillips' performance over the last two games has been fantastic. Against Georgia he had a 90 percent grade including 10 knockdown blocks, and at Georgia Tech he graded out a 92 percent with 10 knockdowns and four pancakes. He did not start playing the guard position on a consistent basis until the fifth game in 1985.

* * * * *

Tailback Terrence Flagler is having his best season as a Tiger. He paces the team in rushing with 220 yards and is a major reason Clemson is 12th in the nation in rushing offense. The native of Fernandina Beach, FL led Clemson to the win over Georgia with 90 yards rushing and 58 in pass receiving. He was the first Clemson player in 12 years to lead Clemson in rushing and reception yardage in the same game. Ken Callicutt turned the trick against South Carolina in 1974.

* * * * *

Terrance Flagler has averaged over 7 yards per carry in the first three games.

The Citadel will be looking to keep the ball out of senior Terrance Roulhac's hands on kickoff returns as he broke for 120 yards last week against the Yellow Jackets. His 81-yard return of the opening kickoff was the longest such return since Hal Davis ran for 98 yards against Georgia during the 1962 season. However, Roulhac's return was the longest play of any type by Clemson since Chuck McSwain's scoring rush of 82 yards against Virginia in 1982. Roulhac's 120 return yardage moved him all the way from sixth place to third on Clemson's all-time kickoff return yardage chart. He is third in the nation in kickoff returns this week.

* * * * *

Bandit end Terence Mack continues to shine defensively as he has topped the Tigers in tackles two of the three games. He came away with 11 stops at Georgia Tech to give him a season total of 25, which ties him with linebacker Norman Haynes in total stops. Mack also broke up two passes last weekend and made one tackle for a loss of two yards. He was the Tigers' leading tackler against Virginia Tech with nine.

The Citadel Bulldogs bring a 2-2 mark into Clemson's Memorial Stadium. Their record includes victories over Northeastern (24-14) and Presbyterian (15-13) and losses to North Carolina (45-14) and last Saturday's loss at Appalachian State (33-10). Coach Moore, who has led the Bulldogs to back-to-back non-losing seasons, welcomed back 13 starters and 35 lettermen from last year's 5-5-1 squad. Prior to the loss at Appalachian State, the Bulldogs' 2-1 start was their best out of the gates since the 1982 season and represented the best start by a Tom Moore-coached team at The Citadel.

A major reason for The Citadel's fast start prior to the Appalachian State loss was due in part to the Bulldogs' ability to hold on to the ball. The Bulldogs had gone 210 consecutive offensive plays without a fumble, however, the Mountaineers forced the Bulldogs into four fumbles, three of which ASU recovered.

* * * * *

The Citadel is led offensively by senior quarterback Kip Allen, who is on the verge of breaking every passing record in Citadel history. This year he has completed 66 of 129 passes for 705 yards (176.3 yards per game) and thrown five touchdown strikes. He needs just 324 yards to move into second place on The Citadel's all-time passing chart. He already owns individual game and season records for most attempts and most completions.

A definite threat in both rushing and receiving is versatile running back Warren McGrier. The 6-0, 205-pound senior native of Ware Shoals, SC, tops the Bulldogs in rushing with 210 yards on 56 carries, two of which have gone for scores.

Now that the Dogs' top receiver, Eric Reddish, is out for the year with an ankle injury, McGrier is Allen's top receiving target. And he has caught 14 Allen passes for 127 yards, including two scoring strikes. McGrier has started and played in all 26 games over the last three seasons.

* * * * *

The Citadel's lone 1985 first-team All-Southern Conference performer is back in tackle Scott Thompson. The 6-5, 260-pounder is a pre-season All-America candidate, according to The Sporting News. So far this season he is leading the Bulldogs defense with 70 tackles, just five less than he made all of last season. He has three tackles for loss and has caused one fumble and broken up a pass. He anchors Moore's 4-3 defensive alignment along with his brother, defensive end Lance Thompson. This 6-1, 220-pound defender has 35 stops and leads the Bulldogs in quarterback sacks with three.

Another area the Bulldogs are very solid in is their kicking game with senior Greg Davis handling placekicking and punting chores. He is just 24 points shy of supplanting Stump Mitchell as the Bulldogs' all-time leading scorer. This season he has booted five field goals and added four PATs to give him 164 career points. His punting average is a nice 43.3 yards, two points above his average last year in which he finished seventh nationally.

When senior wide receiver Terrance Roulhac was a youngster, he remembers the only sport that interested him was basketball. But, one day he was urged to play a game of touch football in front of his house. The other competitors knew Terrance had blazing speed so they encouraged him just to run deep in his very first game. "They threw one long to me and I caught it," Roulhac said. "And from there on every day I just wanted to play wide receiver."

The Tigers have established a tradition of outstanding wide receivers (i.e., Perry Tuttle currently fifth in the CFL in receptions with the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Jerry Butler presently with the Buffalo Bills and the San Francisco 49er's Dwight Clark). Roulhac is continuing that tradition at the position he loves. Clemson kept its promise in giving him a shot at the big play position.

"I chose Clemson because a lot of schools wanted me to play defensive back," said Roulhac, who was named defensive Player-of-the-Year in Florida his senior season. "At that time I didn't want to play defensive back. Clemson gave me a chance to play the position I wanted to play, and if it didn't work out, then I could have gone to defensive back."

Just as Roulhac was in his younger days he is still blessed with lightning speed, as he runs the 40 in 4.47, fourth best on the team. The high school all-state award-winner in track noted, "It's not really raw speed, it's knowing when to make your move and trying to work yourself open. You have to work hard to get open . . . go for broke every time you come off the ball."

Roulhac utilized his speed and experience during the opening game against Virginia Tech as Clemson quarterback Rodney Williams said he wasn't looking to throw to Roulhac in particular, but he found Terrance for four pass receptions for 56 yards. "I just try to throw to who is open," said Williams. "Roulhac has a good knack for finding the open spot. I think that's the main reason I find him a lot. He's been out there so long, he knows how to sneak into that open area. It helps me out because if the receiver is not covered, I don't have to read as much coverage."

Roulhac exhibits another aspect of his versatility and speed as an athlete when he lines up at the goal line to receive the opposing team's kickoff. Currently, he lists as the Tiger's number-three kickoff return leader of all-time. Roulhac holds a 23-yard return average including a 81-yarder to open the Georgia Tech game last week. It was the longest kickoff return for Clemson since October 13, 1962 when Hal Davis ran one back 98 yards against Georgia, the last time Clemson has run one back for a TD. Roulhac noted, "We (he and Ray Williams) are aware of that situation. I thought I had one against Terrance Roulhac is approaching the Clemson touchdown reception record.

Going Deep

Terrance Roulhac has been a big play man since his first game of touch football.

Georgia Tech, but we will get one by the end of the season. We've come too close too many times."

Roulhac's accomplishments throughout his collegiate career are outstanding. He currently ranks sixth in the Clemson career receptions; fifth in career reception yardage; third in touchdown receptions; fifth in career yards per reception; 18th in career scoring and third in career kickoff return yardage. His career fulfillments earned him pre-season Sporting News All-America honors for 1986.

Coach Woody McCorvey feels the 1986 season will determine Roulhac's pro future. "I think Terrance is definitely a pro prospect. He ran a 4.47 for the scouts this spring, which is good. But he needs to keep his concentration on this season with Clemson. In order to have a good pro career, he has to play well for us here."

But, before graduating from Clemson, Terrance plans to break some of the records set by the past Clemson greats. "It would be nice, exciting and a milestone for me to break someone's record," said Roulhac. "I've always wanted to break a collegiate record." With any luck at all Roulhac should have that opportunity. His best shot is with the career touchdown reception mark as he has caught 15 touchdown passes, which places him only three back from Glen Smith's (1949-51) record of 18.

When Roulhac was a star at Raines High School five years ago he caught the eye of many a collegiate scout. Former Clemson receiver coach Lawson Holland remembers his first glance at Roulhac. "I went down to see him when he was at Raines (High School in Jacksonville, FL) and the very first play they lined him up at tight end. I'm sitting in the stands, saying what did Chuck Reedy (who scouts the Florida area) send me down here to see, a 175-pound tight end? They ran a sweep, then came back and ran a throwback to him out of that two tight-end set and I mean, he just took off! I came back and told Chuck that, by golly, the way that kid runs, he can play."

It is fortunate that Roulhac was given the opportunity to play football back in his younger days due to his speed. He went deep in his first game and he's still following the same pattern.

CLEMSON TIGERS

by Annabelle Vaughan

On August 21, 1986, a small article in the back of the sports section of The Greenville News read like this:

Clemson coach Danny Ford was in search of a punter after his team's double practice session Wednesday.

Budget Recruiting

Danny Ford recruited his punter through a newspaper story.

"We are concerned about our punting situation," said Ford. "I think we need to put an ad in the school paper. If there is a student reading this who can punt, please call me at the office. We aren't looking for any (Dale) Hatcher, just someone who can average about 40 yards with a four-second hang time."

Some members of the Clemson baseball team living in an on-campus apartment, saw the article and laughed about it. But one of these baseball players, the shortstop, couldn't seem to get it out of his mind.

He thought that he might be able to fulfill Ford's requirements, but knowing that he had to concentrate on baseball, he tried to forget about it. Finally, the baseball player talked to some of his friends on the football team and they convinced him to give it a shot.

The next time the football team scrimmaged, the baseball player was one of 26 hopefuls showing Coach Ford how well they could kick. Two days later, he was one of five potential punters. The next day, Coach Ford told him to put on pads and the baseball player became a football player. Clemson shortstop Bill Spiers became Clemson punter Bill Spiers.

Spiers had not punted since his high school days at Wade Hampton Academy in Orangeburg. He was the quarterback of his high school team and punted as a sideline. Both years he played football, his team was state champions, so he wasn't called on to punt very often. "In high school, nobody really concentrated on punting," Spiers said. "Somebody would run out there and kick the ball. There was nothing to it." Spiers was an outstanding quarterback, throwing for over 2,000 yards in each of his last two years.

Spiers has found out there is much more to punting in college football. "All eyes are on me when I go out to punt," Spiers said. "Each time I kick is like starting over. It doesn't matter how well I did last time, this kick is the one that matters. My performance can affect the outcome of the entire game."

Spiers found out early in his college punting career that his position is often not a glorious one. His debut came in the Tigers' season opener against Virginia Tech. "I was pretty nervous all week before the game," Spiers remembered. "But first game jitters come in any sport. I tried to think about all the times I had played baseball in front of large crowds and that calmed me down some."

After a respectable first punt of 41 yards, Spiers suddenly found himself forced to kick from deep in his own end-zone. The Hokies rushed hard, batting the ball down and leveling the Clemson punter. "I know some people might blame me for the blocked punt," Spiers said. "But it's the same as making an error in baseball. If I dwell only on the bad things, I'll never succeed."

Spiers said it feels good to be back in football pads. Baseball is still his first love, but after playing for Clemson last spring and in a summer league, he is ready for a break. He hopes to work out a schedule so he can start practicing baseball while continuing to play football.

Spiers is a veteran .345 career hitter for the Tiger baseball team, but a rookie on the gridiron.

Clemson baseball coach Bill Wilhelm certainly wants Spiers to find some time to work on his hitting. Spiers is a key to the 1987 Clemson baseball team as he is a .345 career hitter and owns the Clemson record for runs scored and stolen bases in a season. He hit .443 over the last 29 games of 1986.

Since the shortstop became a punter, he has gotten all kinds of publicity. "I'm not letting it go to my head," Spiers reflected. "I try to take it all in stride. I know I can always get better. I'm never satisfied."

There won't be much time for Bill Spiers to go home to Cameron, SC, this year. As soon as football season is over, he'll have to start concentrating on baseball. But Spiers doesn't mind the extra work. "It's a dream come true," he said. "I never thought I would get a chance to run down the hill. Now my dream is to go to a bowl game with the football team and to the College World Series with the baseball team . . . and win both!"

Spiers certainly helped move Clemson in that direction the last two weeks. He had two pressure punts in the Georgia game, then had a 41.3-yard net average at Georgia Tech. He also had two punts inside the 10-yard line, something that had not been accomplished since the days of Dale Hatcher.

Perhaps Ford has found another Hatcher.

Clemson President MAX LENNON

Max Lennon, former vice president for agricultural administration at Ohio State University, became President of Clemson University on October 14, 1985. The University board of trustees announced the unanimous decision at a board meeting at Clemson on that day.

Dr. Lennon is a native of Columbus County, NC and earned his bachelor's degree in animal science from N. C. State in 1962. He also earned a doctorate in animal science from the same institution in 1970.

He had been at Ohio State for two years where he had also served as executive dean for agriculture, home economics and natural resources. Lennon was also on the Ohio State Faculty Senate and was co-chairman of the Governor's commission on agriculture.

Previously, he had served as dean of the College of Agriculture and director of the Agricultural Experiment Station at the University of Missouri and as associate dean and director of research in the College of Agricultural Sciences at Texas Tech University.

Lennon, who has also served as an assistant professor at Texas Tech and an associate and full professor at Texas Tech and Missouri, spent two years with the international agri-business firm Central Soya of Illinois. He also has participated in many national and international conferences concerning new technologies in agriculture.

The 45-year-old Lennon was chosen from about 200 candidates for the presidency at Clemson. "You have the unwavering support of the entire Board of Trustees to carry out your duties as President of this university," said Louis Batson, chairman of the board of trustees. "We will stick to our role as maker of policy and we want you to carry out our policies without any interference from us."

Lennon commented on his philosophies and goals for Clemson in his opening press conference. "I am extremely delighted to be chosen as the leader of this great institution. We're at an extremely important time in our lives, not because of circumstances but because of where we are in history. We need land-grant institutions in a way that is almost unique . . . so we can continue to be competitive in a world market.

"We at Clemson University must make our own priorities to lead us into the 21st century. We must begin by making ourselves visible in the state, then we must focus on the global perspective of the university and what we can accomplish in that arena."

Batson declared that the long selection process had discovered a man who knows what he wants. "Max Lennon is a good planner, a deep thinker, and a man ready for the challenge. He is restless without being impatient."

Lennon said the early part of his administration will consist of familiarizing himself more closely with Clemson's programs. "It would be presumptuous of me to come in here with a set of priorities," he said. "In the academic community you build on the strengths of the institution, and my first business will be learning about those strengths. I'll be calling for help from the students, faculty, administrators, alumni and the rest of the Clemson family to make sure our priorities are in order."

Lennon began his teaching career at N. C. State in 1966 when he served as a graduate assistant professor. In 1970 he moved to Lubbock, TX, where he served as an assistant professor of animal science at Texas Tech University. He remained at the Texas institution as an assistant dean and associate dean in the College of Agriculture until 1980. On the first day of this decade he became the chairperson in the department of animal husbandry at the University of Missouri. He served as Dean of the College of Agriculture at Missouri until 1983, when he moved to Ohio State as vice president for Agricultural Administration.

Lennon is married to Ruth Carter Lennon and they have two children, Daniel (23) and Robin (21).

Max Lennon is in his first full academic year as Clemson president.

Athletic Director

BOBBY ROBINSON

A total sports program. That's the goal of the Clemson University Athletic Department, and under the leadership of Athletic Director Bobby Robinson, Clemson is headed solidly in that direction.

The road to the athletic director's position has been a steady, successful progression through athletic and administrative opportunities for Robinson. He was born in Columbia and attended A. C. Flora High School. During his high school career, he was a point guard for the basketball team and a third baseman in baseball. He also played golf competitively, and was a scratch golfer at one time. Robinson did not play any high school sports as a senior because of a heat stroke suffered in the summer of 1963. He graduated from A. C. Flora in 1964 and then enrolled in Furman University.

Robinson graduated from Furman with a B.S. degree in business and political science in 1968. He was president of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity chapter at Furman. After he was graduated from Furman, Robinson worked in his family's laundry and dry-cleaning business for two years.

Robinson came to Clemson in 1970, not in athletics, but in the housing office. After three years, he moved across campus to serve as an administrative assistant in the athletic department. "I started at Clemson in the housing office, but I came to Clemson with the intention of working in athletics," said Robinson. "No opening existed at the time, so I had to wait until there was one."

After serving the athletic department in various capacities, he became business manager in 1975. Two years later he was named assistant athletic director and in 1980 he became associate AD. He held that title four years, but his area of responsibility was primarily football and basketball.

While serving his administrative duties, Robinson found time to coach the Clemson golf team between 1975 and 1983. During his time as the head coach, Clemson won its only ACC title in golf and three times the Tigers participated in the NCAA tournament. In 1983, his final season as the head coach, he guided Clemson to a number-five national finish. Clarence Rose was one of three All-Americans to play for the Tigers during his tenure and is now a successful member of the pro tour.

Thus, it is easy to see why Bobby Robinson is most qualified for the position of athletic director at Clemson University — he has done it all. He has been an administrator at all levels, he has worked in other areas in the University, he has been a head coach, and he has handled the budgetary aspects needed to run a $12 million program.

Bobby Robinson's philosophy of athletics is very simple. "We want to be the very best — in competition, in academics, in facilities. We have made the commitment to provide our coaches and athletes the tools necessary to compete on the conference and national level."

In competition, Robinson led the Tigers to one of their best years ever. Football and men's basketball were involved in post-season play and no less than 10 teams participated in NCAA post-season competition. Seven of these teams were ranked in the top 20 in the country. In the Knoxville Journal's All-Sports Poll Clemson ranked 18th in women's sports and 22nd in men's sports, Clemson's first top 25 rating in both areas in the same year.

In academics, Clemson student-athletes had an outstanding year. Over 90 athletes had 3.0 or better grade point ratios either semester, with the football team having five players named to the Academic All-Conference Team, the most in the ACC.

In the area of facilities, Robinson continues his philosophy. Recent renovations have included the Strength Training Center, one of the finest in the country; Tiger Field, home of the Clemson Tiger baseball team; and the West End Zone locker room complex in Memorial Stadium. New facilities now underway include a new activities room in Death Valley, an indoor tennis facility, and a new permanent soccer stadium on Riggs Field. In addition to all of this, a continuing maintenance program for all facilities and practice areas has been established.

From a university perspective, Robinson envisions the athletic department as being one of 49 departments on campus, equal to English, accounting, admissions, and the others. "We believe the athletic department is a viable, important part of the mission of Clemson University," says Robinson, "as athletic competition provides a common bond for students, faculty, staff, and friends."

Under Robinson the athletic department has continued support of the university. Band uniforms and travel, the educational enhancement fund, and the athletic-academic endowment fund (coordinated with the Athletic Council) are some of the areas that have been developed.

Robinson has confidence in his staff, his coaches, his athletes, and the facilities at Clemson University. "We have a solid base to work from, but if we are not moving forward, we are losing ground. We will work within university guidelines and expand our horizons. We want to be as good as we can be as a vital part of the university and the State of South Carolina."

Bobby Robinson guided Clemson to a top 25 finish in both men's and women's sports last year.

Clemson University: THE SECOND CENTURY

Clemson Looks to the Future

Clemson University approaches its 100th birthday in 1989 with an aggressive plan to begin its second century of service to the state, region and country.

"Clemson University: The Second Century" names five major areas for emphasis. Its aim is to forge a partnership for economic progress among the university, the state and the private sector. It will be used as a road map to seek external support and focus the University's research and public service efforts.

The five areas are:

- AGRICULTURE — By applying the most sophisticated of tomorrow's technologies, Clemson will be able to help the agriculture industry become more efficient and profitable. Programs include such areas as biotechnology, food and nutrition, pest control, packaging, environmental science, and water and resource management.

- EMERGING TECHNOLOGIES — Advanced manufacturing systems and new materials — such as the fiber-reinforced composites — are revolutionizing industry. Clemson will contribute to the next generation of manufacturing productivity and materials through research in areas such as computer communications, robotics, semiconductor reliability and the chemical synthesis of totally new materials.

- MARKETING/MANAGEMENT — Marketing, particularly international marketing, is key to South Carolina, where more than 15 percent of total manufacturing output, and one-fourth of farm production, is exported. Clemson will emphasize marketing, as well as produce a new breed of manager — one who speaks the language of technology as fluently as the language of commerce.

- QUALITY OF LIFE — The human and natural resources that make life worth living — and sustain economic growth — must be cherished, nurtured and protected. At Clemson, programs emphasize the humanities; public school education; professional development and continuing education; community and regional planning; and the travel and tourism industry.

- TEXTILES — The U. S. textile industry is the world's most productive, and it has spent $2 billion on modernization in the last year alone to remain competitive. The state's textile industry will benefit from all of the above programs in technology, management, marketing and human resources, as well as from additional emphasis on textiles and fibers research.

From top left, shrink wrapping peaches individually to prolong shelf life is one innovative food packaging technique under study; getting robots to perform more complicated tasks is the object of Clemson's research in advanced manufacturing technologies; marketing research is vital to South Carolina, which exports more than 15 percent of total manufacturing and 25 percent of farm production; public school educational programs help prepare the next generation for its challenges; a joint project between the State Water Resources Commission and the Strom Thurmond Institute is an example of cooperative efforts between Clemson, industry and the state; research on composites and textiles at Clemson ranges from new materials for aircraft to fibers for bulletproof clothing

Danny Ford

Clemson head coach Danny Ford is not an opera buff, he's not even close. And, it is likely that Wolfgang Mozart never saw a college football game. But, these two giants in their fields have something in common — success at a very early stage of their careers.

Mozart became famous for his ability to compose symphonies by the time he was five years old. Danny Ford was not coaching college football teams at age five, he was barely holding a football. But, a look at past national champions indicates that the current Clemson mentor is the youngest coach in the history of the college game to win the Associated Press National Championship. It puts him ahead of all the heavyweights of the game in the modern era (since 1938) of college football.

Ford took Clemson to the national title in 1981 at the age of 33 and now is the winningest coach in the history of the Atlantic Coast Conference on a percentage basis. Additionally, Ford is already seventh in total wins among ACC coaches. Not bad for someone who is still two years away from his 40th birthday.

And, the success has come against top competition. Ford has already gained more wins over AP top 20 teams and top 10 teams than any other Clemson coach in history and is the only coach in ACC history (eight years experience) to have a winning record against top 20 teams (top 20 when playing against Clemson).

Clemson fans are certainly happy Ford entered the profession because he has brought a solid program to among the finest in the nation. Now in his eighth full season at Clemson, his record of 58-21-2 (.728) is the seventh best winning percentage in college football among active coaches.

Between 1981 and 1984 Clemson had a 37-6-2 ledger, the fourth best winning percentage in America. The class of '84 was the third winningest in ACC history in terms of winning percentage, and no ACC class in the 33-year history of the league ever won more games in a four-year period.

Ford has been a part of three ACC championship teams and one National Championship team at Clemson. In 1978 he was offensive coordinator for the 11-1 team that won the Gator Bowl over Ohio State, 17-15. The Gadsden, AL native was more than just the offensive coordinator in that game however, as he had become the head coach of the Tigers on December 10 after Charley Pell had already left to go to Florida. The 30-year-old Ford made quite a celebrated beginning to his head coaching career with that victory over the Woody Hayes-coached Buckeyes. The nationally televised Clemson victory helped put the Tigers on the national football map and it began Clemson's climb to among the elite of college football.

A review of Ford's football past should help us understand why he has been so successful as a head coach. Another in a long line of former Bear Bryant players that have gone on to greatness in coaching, Ford played for the Bear between 1967 and 1969. He was Kenny Stabler's sophomore tight end as a starter in 1967, played that position in 1968 and moved to offensive tackle in 1969. Ford started all three years, was all-conference in 1969 and played on three teams that went to bowl games. In 1969 he was also a member of the All-SEC academic team, and served as the captain of the Alabama team.

After Pat Dye's coaxing, Ford remained at Alabama as a graduate assistant for the 1970 and 1971 seasons. He had already earned his B.S. degree in industrial arts and earned his master's degree in special education in 1971. Ford became a full-time aide for Bryant in 1972 and 1973. The Tide went to four bowl games while Ford was an assistant coach.

Clemson's current head man then accepted a position as an assistant coach under Jimmy Sharpe at Virginia Tech. He remained in Blacksburg for three seasons (1974-76) before coming to Clemson as offensive line coach in 1977. And, just 23 games later he was named head coach of the Tigers at the age of 30, the youngest active Division I coach in the country.

Nearly 40 years after hiring 31-year-old Alabama graduate Frank Howard, Clemson had hired 30-year-old Alabama graduate Danny Ford.

Now 38 years old, Danny Ford is running out of mountains to climb. He has been associated with 19 college football teams as a player or coach through the years and 18 have had winning regular season records and 12 have gone to bowl games. Additionally, those clubs have had a combined record of 154-59-5, a .729 winning percentage.

Assistant Coaches

Jack Crowe joined the Clemson staff on February 24, 1986, as the quarterback coach. He comes to Clemson from Auburn, where he served as offensive coordinator and coached Heisman Trophy winner Bo Jackson. He has also served in the offensive coordinator position at Wyoming and North Alabama, and was both an assistant and head coach at Livingston University. Crowe received his undergraduate degree from Alabama-Birmingham in 1970, and completed his master's degree in education from Livingston in 1973. The Fairfield, AL, native will recruit in the Georgia, Virginia, and Alabama areas this year.

Bill D'Andrea is the newest addition to the Clemson coaching staff as he returned to Clemson on June 23, 1986, from Southern Mississippi. Prior to that he was an assistant coach at East Carolina, the University of Virginia, Massanutten Military Academy, Catawba College, and most recently was a graduate assistant at Clemson. D'Andrea received his bachelor's degree from Indiana State in 1973, and completed his master's degree in 1975. He will assist in coaching the Clemson offensive line and will recruit for the Tigers in North Carolina, Pennsylvania, and northern New Jersey.

Miles Aldridge joined the Tiger coaching staff in June of 1985. A native of Kansas City, MO, Aldridge coaches the inside linebackers. He is responsible for recruiting in South Carolina, Florida, southern New Jersey, and the Philadelphia area. A 1971 graduate of Gardner Webb College, he is in his 16th year of coaching. Aldridge began his collegiate coaching career at East Tennessee State, after he moved to Wichita State, Tulsa, and then Mississippi. Before arriving at Clemson he served as linebacker coach at Duke for two seasons.

Woody McCorvey is in his fourth year of coaching Clemson players that catch the ball. He coached tight ends his first three years and two seasons he coached the All-ACC tight end. He is in his first season as a wide receiver coach. He recruits in North Carolina and Florida. McCorvey came to Clemson from Alabama A&M where he was defensive coordinator for four years. The 1972 Alabama State graduate lettered four years in football at the school before earning his physical education degree. He then received a master's degree in health, leisure, and sports from the University of West Florida in 1977.

Larry Van Der Heyden has coached Clemson's offensive line for the past seven years. In addition, he recruits in South Carolina, North Carolina, and western Pennsylvania. Van Der Heyden joined the Tiger coaching staff in January 1979, coming from Memphis State where he was offensive coordinator for three years. He also served stints at Iowa State, Drake, Indiana State, East Carolina, and Virginia. He earned his B.A. and master's degree at Iowa State and lettered three years in football and baseball. He is a member of the All-time Iowa State football team.

Tom Harper became Clemson's assistant head coach in February 1981. Having served as defensive coordinator at North Carolina and Iowa State, his most recent stint in that same position was at Virginia Tech. He was also Wake Forest's head coach in 1972. Harper graduated from the University of Kentucky with his bachelor's degree in 1955 and received his master's degree from there in 1958. He is responsible for recruiting in South Carolina and New York. Six of the Clemson players he has coached have played pro football, including three who were NFL starters last year (William Perry, Dan Bish, and Jeff Bryant).

Chuck Reedy has coached Clemson's running backs for the last eight years. He also has a heavy recruiting schedule covering South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, and the New York-Long Island areas. The St. Augustine, FL, native earned two letters in football from Appalachian State where he was a 1971 graduate in health and physical education. He came to Clemson from Kentucky on July 5, 1978. Reedy is the main reason Clemson has signed the top player in Jacksonville five years in a row. He has coached three backs who have gone on to the NFL, including Kevin Mack, last year's AFC offensive rookie-of-the-year.

Tommy West is in his fifth season coaching the Clemson defensive and bandit ends. He recruits for the Tigers in Florida and Georgia. Prior to coming to Clemson, West coached at Appalachian State until July, 1982. The Gainesville, GA, native earned his B.S. degree in health education from the University of Tennessee in 1975 after lettering three years in football and baseball. A fine all-around athlete, West was drafted out of high school by baseball's Chicago Cubs.

Bill Oliver is in his first season at Clemson as the defensive secondary coach. He will also recruit for the Tigers in Florida, Alabama, and Georgia. A native of Livingston, AL, he began his collegiate coaching career as defensive secondary coach at Auburn, and five years later was hired by the late Paul "Bear" Bryant to fill the same position at Alabama. His most recent stint, however, was with the Memphis Showboats of the United States Football League where he served as senior defensive coordinator and secondary coach. Oliver was a member of the 1961 undefeated National Championship Alabama team and he received his bachelor's degree in 1962.

Clemson Coaches

Post-season activity highlighted the 1985-86 sports year at Clemson University, as 15 of the 18 athletic teams were involved in post-season championships. Ten of Clemson's teams finished in the top 30 in the nation last year, seven in the top 20, and four individuals finished runner-up in national championships. The women's program ranked 18th in the country while the men were 22nd, according to The Knoxville Journal's collegiate all-sports poll.

The Tiger teams captured four Atlantic Coast Conference titles, including an 11th ACC soccer crown, the first ever men's swimming title, a sixth men's tennis title, and fifth straight women's tennis championship.

Taking national team honors for Clemson was the defending NCAA Champion soccer team, which spent most of the year ranked number-one, but had to settle for a final national ranking of fourth after losing in the round of 16 in its 13th NCAA tournament.

The men's and women's tennis teams reached new heights as both clubs were among the favorites to win their respective NCAA titles. Chuck Kriese's Tigers spent most of the year ranked in the top three, including a school-record high of No. 2 in February, but claimed a final ranking of fifth, which marked the eighth consecutive season in the top 15. Coach Andy Johnston's Lady Tigers reached a high of fourth in the country on three different occasions and ended up eighth in the final poll.

Clemson's swimming program established a solid national reputation this season as the women finished ranked seventh in the country, best ever finish for any Clemson swim team. The men's team captured the school's first ever ACC title and wound up 35th overall at NCAAs.

Wrestling and golf maintained their strong standing among the traditional NCAA leaders. The wrestlers finished 19th in the NCAA dual meet poll and they wound up 20th at NCAAs, as Clemson had representatives at the NCAA tournament for the sixth straight year.

Coach Larry Penley guided the golfers to a fifth straight NCAA appearance, sixth overall, and a finish of 21st in the championship. Sophomore Brad Clark captured the long driving contest at the NCAA golf tournament and also led after the first day of the tournament as he shot a 68 to share the lead with eventual NCAA champ Scott Verplank of Oklahoma State and Wake Forest's Tim Straub.

The Tiger football and basketball programs were in the national spotlight once again, as the gridgers made a 12th post-season bowl appearance in the Independence Bowl and the roundballers reached the quarterfinals of the National Invitation Tournament. Coach Danny Ford's football squad had five players selected to the All-ACC Academic team, the most ever, and more than any school in the ACC.

Clemson had six ACC MVPs last year, one less than the school record of seven. Gary Conner became the 11th Clemson soccer player to be so honored. Pam Hayden capped the women's swimming MVP, while Chuck Wade won his second straight ACC Diving MVP. Wrestler Joey McKenna was an ACC MVP recipient as he won his 150-pound division and rookie Ingelise Driehuis was the fifth Lady Tiger tennis player to be named MVP. Chuck Baldwin was chosen the league's baseball MVP, marking the third time Clemson has had back-to-back winners since 1973.

Four coaches were chosen ACC Coach-of-the-Year in their respective sports. For the second straight year Bob Boettner and Andy Johnston were accorded the honors. Boettner was selected co-coach for the women and won it outright in the men's division, while Johnston collected his third league coaching award. Soccer mentor I. M. Ibrahim won his third and Chuck Kriese picked up his second ACC award and third Southern Tennis Association Coach of the Year honor.

"IT WORKS FOR CLEMSON"

"IPTAY. It Works For Clemson."

The theme of IPTAY's 53rd campaign is aptly put. Since 1934, success in serving Clemson has been the key in making IPTAY one of the nation's premier athletic scholarship fund-raising organizations.

Founded by Dr. Rupert Fike and other friends of Clemson, IPTAY was created in Atlanta, Georgia as a secret organization to support athletic programs. From the early days when memberships were often paid up in eggs and fresh vegetables, IPTAY (I-Pay-Thirty-A-Year) has annually been one of the top organizations of its kind in the country. Today, over 20,000 active members support IPTAY annually.

IPTAY's first and foremost goal is to annually insure the financing of a quality education for nearly 400 student-athletes, trainers, and managers. Countless numbers of success stories begin with the receipt of an IPTAY scholarship, and through the generous support of IPTAY members, Clemson University has been able to award the maximum number of scholarships allowed by the NCAA in Clemson's 18 men's and women's varsity sports. For the over 3,000 students who have been awarded IPTAY scholarships, and for those who are still to come, without a doubt IPTAY works for them.

Because of IPTAY's commitment to excellence both in the classroom and on the playing field, the ability to expand programs has enabled IPTAY to directly benefit the entire university family. In the fall of 1984, the IPTAY Athletic Academic Endowment Scholarship Fund was created to award financial support to students whose performance in the classroom warranted distinction.

The concept that supports the endowment is based on money donated by matching gift companies, as well as monies generated by television appearances and scholarship awards in such contests. What results from this endowment is one of the largest unrestricted scholarships in the history of Clemson. Perhaps the most exciting feature of the fund is its potential. As the years go on, the growth of the program will only be equalled by IPTAY's desire to work for Clemson.

Other contributions made possible to Clemson University through IPTAY include several capital improvement projects which have helped to give the university the best facilities in the nation.

Some of the current projects that are sponsored by IPTAY include an indoor tennis facility, as well as permanent soccer stadium. The indoor facility features four indoor courts, as well as permanent seating, and will be available for faculty, students, and staff when not in use by the varsity tennis teams. The soccer stadium will provide a home for the 1984 National Champions, who will once again be defending their ACC championship. Improved lighting as well as 6,000 permanent seats and a new scoreboard will give the Tiger Soccer program the facility it deserves.

Other improvements that IPTAY has established for the university as a whole include a $150,000 enhancement grant for education to be used as the university desires, improved lighting for Riggs Field, and the development of East Bank Recreation Area for student usage.

The Tiger Band will be sporting brand new uniforms as it takes the field this fall. The uniforms, as well as all expenses for band travel, are sponsored by IPTAY. This commitment, of well over $200,000, allows the Tiger Band to strut its stuff in style, both home and away.

Although the success of IPTAY's programs and the financial management of its Board of Directors have enabled IPTAY to assist in other concerns of the university, the primary concern of IPTAY is in educating young people and in servicing the needs of its membership.

IPTAY sponsors one of the most progressive tutorial programs in the country, and at any time, any athlete is able to supplement his education through the use of tutors, or the impressive study hall program. A highly-trained academic advising staff helps the student-athletes to prepare for a future, and to shape their tomorrows by studying today. Through these efforts, almost a fourth of Clemson's student-athletes were on the honor roll in the spring semester of 1986.

Working for IPTAY members is one of the major goals of the IPTAY Board and the internal staff. Each IPTAY member receives personal service to their account, and is constantly kept abreast of the programs of Clemson through the IPTAY office. Every member receives thirty-five issues of the Orange and White each year. As the official publication of IPTAY, the Orange and White is exclusively distributed to IPTAY members, and features indepth coverage of Clemson athletics.

IPTAY is a part of Clemson in many ways. Through its various programs and contributions, the 20,000 members of IPTAY spread their support of Clemson throughout the entire university family. There is no doubt that this year's theme echoes loudly through the red hills of upstate South Carolina, because IPTAY truly works for Clemson.

Allison Dalton
Executive Secretary of IPTAY

Emergency Services

The Clemson University Athletic Department provides the following for your safety and emergency medical needs:

1. Advanced cardiac life-support stations in four locations. (North stands, Upper North deck, South stands, Upper South deck.) These units are staffed with skill-care nurses, physicians, cardiologists, internists, paramedics, and EMTs.
2. Mobile units of EMTs and paramedics are strategically located throughout the entire stadium.
3. Ambulances with life-support equipment are available in North stand and South Stand areas and have prearranged routes for evacuation to local hospitals.

Learn to recognize these personnel and facilities.

WHAT TO DO IF EMERGENCIES ARISE

Please step back and give the organized stadium EMS personnel room to work. Well-intentioned attempts to help by untrained persons interfere with the efficiency of the EMS system. If you have basic or advanced training in specific life-support methods, make your qualifications known and offer your help. Untrained personnel can be frequently more harmful than helpful.

MEDICAL ADVICE FOR FANS

If you have a pre-existing medical or health problem, please check with your personal physician and obtain his advice before attending games. Many emergencies occurring at the stadium do so because of prior existing conditions. Use common sense in dressing, eating, drinking and physical exertion. Be certain that you have identification on you as to the diagnosis and what medications you are currently taking.

Be aware of warning signs of heart attacks: chest pain, chest tightness, shortness of breath, sweating, palpitations, fainting, nausea and vomiting.

Recognize that our most common serious medical problem at football games are heart attacks and allergic reactions to insect stings. Be aware that insect stings will continue to always be very frequent at outdoor sporting events and should always be treated with immediate ice until advice can be obtained. If you have ever had a reaction to bee or other insect sting, check with your personal physician as to whether you should carry a kit.

The stadium emergency phone number is (803) 656-2999.

GROWING JOBS FOR RURAL AMERICA

Growing jobs in South Carolina is like growing anything else.

It takes a lot of work, preparing, nurturing, harvesting your resources with skill and commitment.

That's what The Electric Co-ops of South Carolina have done for the past 50 years. By delivering affordable, dependable power to rural areas, they made possible the industrialization of more than half of our state.

Since then, they've been working with local governments for economic growth, actively recruiting business and industry, and helping provide the expertise to keep South Carolina competitive and growing.

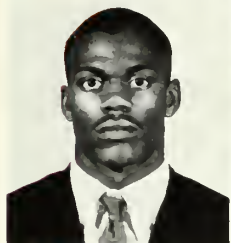

All to make rural South Carolina, and all of South Carolina, the cream of the crop.

HIGH SCORING RELIEF

THE ACC GAME PLAN.

Get ready for another exciting season of ACC FOOTBALL.

This fall millions of loyal fans will tune in to heart-pounding gridiron action as Jefferson-Pilot Teleproductions presents another full schedule of ACC Football.

We're part of the Jefferson-Pilot family of companies. And whether it's protecting families with life insurance or entertaining them on radio and television, our commitment to quality, in business and in life, remains the same.

So, as the passion and the pageantry of one of America's most exciting sports spectacles unfolds across some of the country's most beautiful campuses, all of us at Jefferson-Pilot Teleproductions wish each ACC member the very best of luck. And we invite everyone to enjoy the action with us.

ACC football and Jefferson-Pilot Teleproductions. The tradition continues.

Jefferson-Pilot Teleproductions is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Jefferson-Pilot Corporation National sales and syndication by Jefferson-Pilot Teleproductions.

MEMORIAL STADIUM

When former Head Coach Frank Howard first conceived the idea of building a new football stadium in the 1940's he not only helped start the construction of what would later be one of the finest stadiums in America, but he also built a solid foundation for the entire athletic department. Memorial Stadium has undergone five seating additions not to mention other facility changes since 1942 that helped mold it into a showplace of college football. But it was Howard who actually first laid the sod and poured the concrete. It is indeed the "House that Frank Built."

the air-conditioning system of the university. Thus, it seemed to be a perfect place to have a lush, green field.

Building the Stadium

Civil Engineering students surveyed the land and Clemson engineers drew up plans for the stands, which were built in concrete along the red clay walls of the natural bowl. The stadium became more of a reality as a result of the sale of $110,000 of bonds by Clemson University. The bond issue was authorized by the S. C. Legislature. Credit for the design of the stadium goes to Carl Lee of Charlotte, NC, a Clemson graduate of '08 and

by Sam Blackman

15-20 axes and we cut all the trees down. We had two boys, Bull Cagle and Ed Locklair, who had a late class. When they came out there I told them to cut down a hickory tree over in a corner, and after they were finished we would go inside. When they started cutting the tree it looked as though every time they hit the tree, the ax would bounce back. They thought they would cut the tree down in five minutes, but it took them an hour and a half," smiled Howard.

Frank Howard was there with the start of construction from the word go. "Before they sank the corner posts for the stands, I put a plug of chewing tobacco at the bottom of each hole for good luck."

The stadium was finished during the summer of 1942 with a completed value of $125,000, which means each seat cost $6.50 to build.

The House That Frank Built

"Frank Howard is probably the reason we are at the level we have now attained," comments Athletic Director Bobby Robinson. "The saying you have to walk before you can run is a true one. Frank Howard was here when we started walking. He is probably the reason we are able to do some of the things we are doing now, because he laid a good foundation with the football program, IPTAY and the whole athletic program. The building of Memorial Stadium is part of the foundation."

Prior to the 1942 season Clemson played at Bowman Field and Riggs Field, the current site of the Clemson soccer field. The Tigers soon outgrew their den and needed a new place to play. "The reason we needed a new field was because all we had at Riggs Field was just a few grandstand seats and a few bleacher seats. The capacity was about 8-10 thousand fans," said Howard, who first came to Clemson in 1931. "We didn't have many games at Clemson. We played Furman at Greenville most of the time, and if we had one home game a year that was a lot. Some seasons we didn't have any. It was just not a good place to play."

The movement started for a new stadium in the fall of 1940. "It was a natural valley," were the words of some, as they described the site that was selected below Fike Fieldhouse for the new stadium in 1940. In fact there was a stream running down the middle of this natural ravine, and if people were able to look under the playing surface today they would see water flowing through a big pipe. The water comes from the campus, as a result of the air-conditioning system which is used for

Professor H. E. Glenn of the engineering faculty.

There was little need for leveling the field, but there were some trees growing at the site and it was left up to Frank Howard and some football players in summer school to remove them for the task ahead. Coach Howard gave a new meaning to cheap labor and was actually involved in building the stadium himself.

"We had a few boys in summer school," remembers Howard. "I bought

Ice Cream for Everyone

Coach Howard even supervised the laying of the turf. "I along with about 75 laborers put the sod down. We put some sand down first and graded the field so there would be a crown in the middle so the water would run off during a rainstorm. We had worked three weeks putting the sod down and we were only to the 50 yard line. With the season approaching in September, we were still working on the grass in July. I told them, 'boys, we have to get through with this thing, soon.' I told them I would pay them three weeks wages, plus, when we got through I was going to have 50 gallons of ice cream sitting at the end of the field. I figured it would take two weeks of work, but it took them three days to finish the other 50 yards. We sat down and finished off all that ice cream right on the floor of the stadium. This experience taught me to believe in motivation."

Running Down the Hill

In the first game (September 19, 1942 at 2:00 p.m.), the Tigers had an easy time with Presbyterian, 32-13 before 6,000 fans. Among them were servicemen who were admitted for 50 cents, along with high-school-age-and-under children who paid 25 cents. The stadium was not the only thing unveiled, as the Tigers donned new uniforms, helmets, and shoes for this game. This contest also was the premier of what is probably the greatest entrance by a team in all sports, the tradition of running down the hill.

"We had to dress in Fike Fieldhouse and this was the shortest way to the field," said Howard. "It is as simple as that. We didn't have any alternative."

"Death Valley"

In 1948 Presbyterian coach Lonnie McMillian nicknamed Memorial Stadium "Death Valley" because it was so hot and was a tough place to play. Coach Howard started calling it that and the name stuck. Another legend had been born at the feet of Frank Howard.

Stadium Additions

As Clemson began to swell with success, so did the stadium. Clemson went through its first addition in the 50s. After a trip to the Orange Bowl in 1956 and a 7-3 season in 1957, a need for more seats was realized and 18,000 seats were added above the portals. Additionally, two half sections were added to allow the stadium to go from endzone to endzone, increasing the capacity to 38,000. This time the addition was added at a cost of $16.50 a seat. Seventeen wins between 1958 and 1959 created more needs for tickets, so the west stands were built in 1960. This facility housed the dressing rooms for the players. The entire project added 5,700 seats at a cost of $52.63 a seat.

Football Water Polo?

About 1960 Lake Hartwell was being built. The man-made body of water nearly caused the permanent movement of the stadium. It was discovered that the lake could fill the stadium and the area around it all the way up to the 29th row. Coach Howard's problem was solved by a Clemson graduate. "A former player, who worked for the corp of engineers, said to me, 'Coach, I can show you a way you can have a stadium and the lake too. All you have to do is build some dykes and allow the campus water to run into the river bed.' He also suggested the installation of a pumping station in case the river got too much drainage. I took him to the university administrators and introduced him to everybody. That saved the day. I would have had to put the stadium where the horticulture gardens are now if he hadn't given us that plan."

Aluminum bleachers replaced the wooden ones in 1972 and the pro-style goal posts that came a year later were the only major changes during an 18-year time span. On November 16, 1974 the playing surface was named Frank Howard Field for the legendary coach because of his long service and dedication to the university.

Upper Decks

The late seventies and the early eighties brought upper decks to make the valley appear even more ominous. After the 1977 season construction started on the south side upper deck. The project ran into difficulty in January 1978 when it was discovered the support structures were sinking, as a ditch had been improperly covered many years before.

Building was resumed after the concrete retaining walls were finished and work continued through the 1978 season. The upper deck was finished in time for the season's finale against South Carolina on November 25. This addition added 9,000 seats at a cost of $889 per seat. A record crowd of 63,050 watched a victory over South Carolina.

This south side addition also allowed for the building of luxury boxes, a new press box, and a president's box. Clemson was probably the first university to have luxury boxes in its stadium. On the southside there are 26 of these boxes, six of them sit 68 people and 20 of them sit 12 people each. On the north side of the stadium between the old and the new stands there are 72 executive suites. Two of these hold 66 people, one is for the IPTAY Board of Directors and the other is for the Clemson Board of Trustees. There are also two boxes that hold 44 people, and all of the rest of the boxes seat 22.

"The suites are tremendous," said Associate Athletic Director Len Gough. "It is non-shared revenue because the money that is made out of the suites becomes Clemson's money. Instead of dividing the money with the opponents the money helps defray the cost of the new addition to the north side. The luxury box is a very unique way to watch a Clemson football game."

They include an ice machine, running hot and cold water, maid service, choice of meals, climate control, closed circuit TV and stereo system. It generates $1,000 dollars in revenue per seat per season. Suite assignments are rented out according to accumulative giving to IPTAY and the suite program.

In the summer of 1982 3,800 permanent seats were added on the hill so that more season ticket holders would have the benefit of a permanent seat. It also allowed for the addition of the handicapped section.

The final addition came prior to the 1983 season. A total of 15,000 seats ($886 dollars per seat) were added when an upper deck was built above the north stands bringing the total capacity to 79,854. This project was started the week before the South Carolina game during the 1982 season. As a part of this project, lights once again came to Memorial Stadium. Clemson had lights between the 1948-56 seasons, but they were not used much. The 48 lights on each pole today put out a total of 72,000 watts, and the 576,000 total watts per pole will emit enough light for a person to stand at midfield at midnight and be able to read the stock quotations from the Wall Street Journal.

UNIVERSITY FEATURE

Keith Todd
Lancaster, SC
Clemson is large enough to offer a great academic experience, but small enough so that each student is an individual, a true member of the Clemson Family.

Emily Eitel
Spartanburg, SC
I wanted a strong engineering program. Because Clemson offered that and a well-rounded collegiate atmosphere, I knew I had found the right university for me.

Vineeta Ambasht
Columbia, SC
Wherever you go on Clemson's campus, you'll see smiling faces, including professors who are always willing to work with you individually regardless of the class size.

Robin Faulkner-Swing
Lexington, NC
There is an activity for everyone at Clemson. I chose Student Government, and thoroughly enjoyed working with university administrators and students to help make a better Clemson.

Julie Peacock
Myrtle Beach, SC
Clemson is a university with the love and support of a family, fine academic programs, spirit and loyalty. Clemson has it all!

Doug Bone,
Florence, SC
Technical excellence, cooperative faculty members, glowing reviews from Clemson graduates I knew, a generous scholarship offer, and a spirit of personal instruction convinced me to attend Clemson.

Why Clemson?

Some future alumni discuss their reasons for attending Clemson.

Mary Helen Boshysell
Seminole, FL
Clemson provided the best of both worlds. It has the well developed departments of a large university and lots of extracurricular activities, while maintaining the academic intimacy of a small college.

Kevin McCarter
Clover, SC
Clemson has a long-standing reputation as a top textile school. The student/teacher ratio is very good. I get the individual attention of a small school along with all of the advantages of a large university.

Fred Williams
Atlanta, GA
I knew Clemson would challenge me academically, preparing me for my career and "life after college." But I also knew that it was a place where I could make friends, get involved in many activities on campus, and basically, enjoy my college years.

Matt Frooman
Rolling Hills Estates, CA
Clemson has a highly respected accounting department, a beautiful campus, and a nationally recognized athletic program. Since I am on the varsity tennis team, this last reason was especially important to me.

Lane Hunt
Fayetteville, NC
Clemson has one of the finest computer engineering programs in the Southeast and the campus is beautiful. Also, Clemson is close enough to a large city to take advantage of opportunities there, but far enough away to have the peace and serenity of the country.

LIFE REACH... SAVING TIME. SAVING LIVES.

The Life Reach helicopter is a familiar sight in South Carolina's skies. Its mission is to remove the obstacles—time and distance—that can prevent critically ill or injured patients from reaching the care they need to live.

With Life Reach, physicians in communities across the state can send these patients to the medical referral center best able to handle their specific problems.

The helicopter is fully equipped for intensive care, and staffed with a team of critical care specialists. So besides providing fast transportation, we can maintain the necessary level of care and life support for our patients.

Providence has expanded the services offered by the Life Reach helicopter to all who need immediate, continuous intensive care during transport—cardiovascular, head injury, internal hemorrhage, burn, and other patients. We can handle transfers from hospitals, accident scenes, or clinics to Providence or any hospital within a 150 mile range.

There are South Carolinians alive today because the helicopter got them to the help they needed. Life Reach is saving lives—by saving time.

Back From The Dead

— by Kassie Kessinger

Senior wide receiver Ray Williams felt he had so much to look forward to as he anticipated his final collegiate season on the Tiger gridiron as well as on the baseball diamond. In the opinion of many, he was a cinch to be drafted in both sports next year.

By the end of Williams' junior season he was the Tigers' all-time leader in kickoff returns and ranked ninth in career receptions and reception yards. The fine all-around athlete also blasted 16 round-trippers last spring to give him 30 career home runs, which is second on the all-time Clemson chart.

Williams was anxious to continue his onslaught on the Tiger record books and help lift Clemson back into the national spotlight, God willing. However, there was just one nagging pain that almost interrupted his plans. The pain localized in his hip, and at first something thought to be just a stubborn pulled muscle suffered during the baseball season, never quite healed.

Feeling confident the pain would soon subside, Ray left his hometown of Fayetteville, NC, and ventured to Massachusetts to play in the Cape Cod summer baseball league. But, according to the 21-year-old, the pain persisted and he finally returned to Clemson in July.

"I was getting treatment before work at 6:00 a.m., before and after each game, so that left me only about four or five hours of sleep at night," he recalled. "I just couldn't concentrate on the baseball and the mental anguish really began to work on me."

Ray went through a battery of tests and was seen by many specialists before the final diagnosis was delivered. And it was not so optimistic, as Dr. Byron Harder, Clemson University team physician, explained:

"It was revealed, through a highly sensitive piece of X-Ray equipment known as an MRI scanner, that Ray had a condition known as aseptic necrosis. There was an area in his hip bone that just died for no apparent reason. We investigated the common causes like sickle cell anemia, but it wasn't anything like that, so we were left with an idiopathic cause, which means nobody knows where it came from."

Ray was faced with a couple of options. One was immediate surgery, the other was a wait and see period of eight weeks. Ray conferred with his family and chose the former option. "I discussed the situation with my family and decided to go ahead with the surgery and take my chances from there," he said. "I didn't see any reason to wait any longer since it hadn't gotten any better over the summer. Despite the prognosis that I might not be able to play football again, I had faith that I would be able to come back."

This condition is usually seen in the elderly. It is very rare in someone as young as Ray. His surgeon, Dr. Roland Knight, said he was by far the youngest case he had ever treated. So, although his pain was prolonged and could not be identified beyond a pulled muscle, this may have been a blessing in disguise since it led to the discovery of the hip disorder and subsequent treatment.

Of course, not only was Ray's athletic future in peril, but his overall health was in jeopardy, as initially doctors weren't quite certain what they would find. "The idea behind the surgery number-one was the biopsy, to check for evidence of malignancy or anything else," explained Harder. "That was done and it turned out to be normal. A hole was drilled into the hip bone, to stimulate new bone growth and so blood vessels migrating into that area could make up for a lack of blood supply. It is this lack of blood supply that causes the bone to dry out and then die."

Following surgery on July 16, Ray was relegated to spend four weeks on crutches and assigned a strenuous rehabilitation program. "The length of rehab time seemed long," bemoaned Williams. "With this injury it was important to keep my cardiovascular system in good shape. At one time I was spending about four hours in a swimming pool and eventually walking and then jogging."

Williams hastened his recovery mainly because of his dedication to carry out the doctor's orders and desire to return to the playing fields. According to assistant athletic trainer Reno Wilson, Williams was a prized pupil.

"Ray was remarkable," replied Wilson. "We had him walking relatively early, riding a bicycle, and swimming a lot. He was down here (training room) as much as three times a day. So, he really pushed himself to get well, doing everything the doctors and our staff asked of him. From all that I've read on the rehabilitation for this condition, he did remarkable."

Initial reports of Williams' return to action pointed to October. But, Ray defied the early odds and returned much sooner than anyone had imagined. "There was a difference in opinion among the doctors about the exact timing of my return," he said. "Some said I should wait three weeks, some said four months, and one or two said I would be foolish to play at all. Had they all agreed that I shouldn't ever play again, I would have followed that advice. My mom said the decision was up to me, saying I was old enough to make my own decisions."

Ray's first test came in Clemson's season-opening loss to Virginia Tech. "I was scared of taking my first hit," he remembered. "On the second pass, I caught the ball across the middle and I got hit, plus I landed on my hip. But I got right up and knew I was OK. So, that proved a lot to me, and to a lot of people that I can take a lick. It helped me get over the fear." Much to the delight of the coaching staff and Clemson fans, Ray Williams was back. And Clemson's records once again were in jeopardy.

His supportive family of his mother, four sisters and two brothers has helped him in this situation and in some of the troublesome times in his life. "I owe everything to my mom," he smiled, "because she's the one who told me to go to college. She took two or three jobs after my Father died when I was young, and let me stay out and practice. She's so proud of me, she acts like I'm William Perry when I go home."

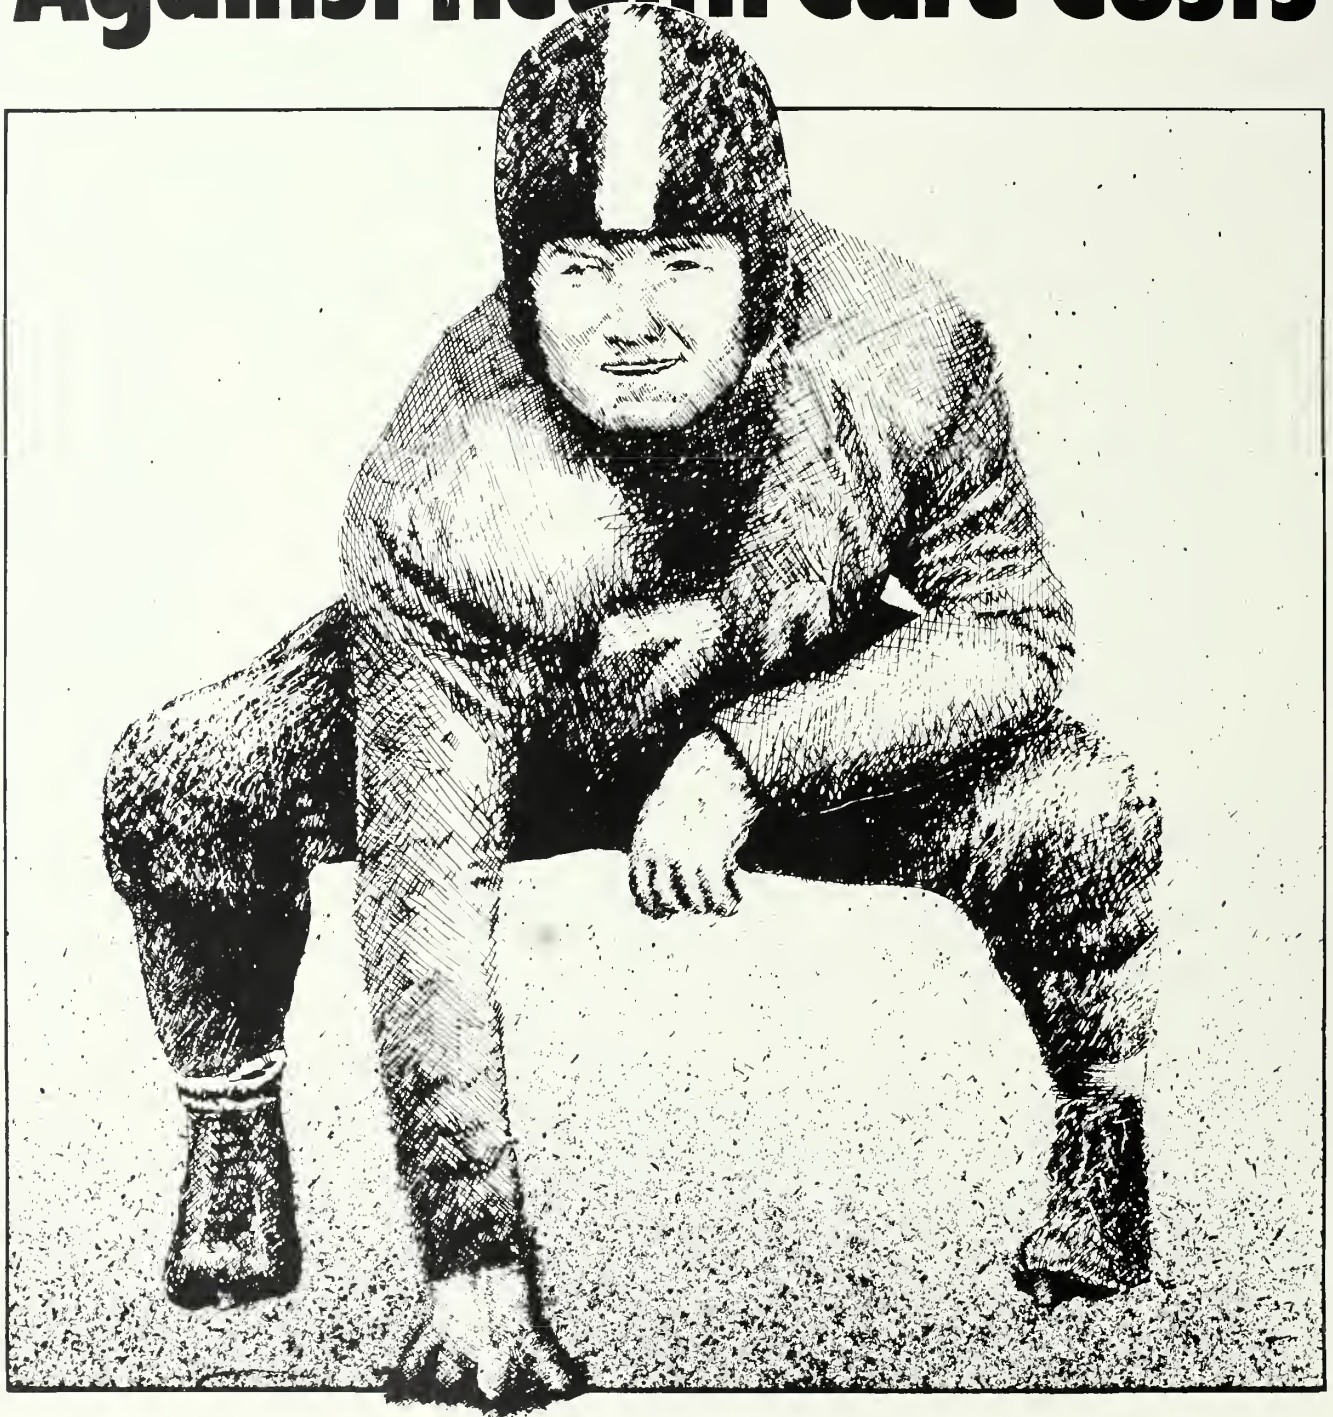

So, while Ray's swift return to the playing fields might come as a surprise to many, it doesn't raise the eyebrows of those closest to him. They know he's the consummate competitor and one who doesn't know when to quit.

Head Coach Danny Ford said there might not be a finer prospect for lifelong success. "He's worked hard to make himself successful. He's got the personality to go a long way in this world. He'll be an asset, whether he remains in sports as a player or coach. But even if he doesn't do that, for someone in business who is hunting a guy who will give them an honest day's work, and create good relations, then I don't think they could find a better person."

Ray Williams is second in career home runs on the Clemson baseball diamond.

Some people set higher standards for themselves. They come out early. And stay late. Funny, how they're usually the winners.

At Ricoh, we set higher product standards. And we put in that extra effort. Maybe that's why Ricoh's line of copiers, digital facsimile, laser printers, and shredders are setting new standards of performance in today's modern office. And that's why Ricoh cameras are winning the attention of amateurs and professionals alike in the world of photography.

Be a winner. Demand that extra effort. Ask for Ricoh. We Respond.

Graphic contract carpet made with tough Marvess olefin BCF yarn outlasts the competition for a lot of good reasons.

You can now have beautifully luxurious, soft, strong Marvess olefin carpet for about the same price as standard grades of contract carpet. So you get a lot more value for your money. And Marvess olefin comes in 50 solid shades—styling colors developed especially for the commercial market.

Further, performance of a carpet is judged almost exclusively by its appearance retention. The following characteristics are what make Marvess olefin a better buy:

Marvess olefin carpet is highly stain-resistant and easily cleaned. And the color is more stable due to the use of selected pigments rather than dyes. These less permanent dyes are used to color nylon, polyester or acrylic carpet yarn.

Marvess olefin carpet has a high abrasion resistance and is chemically resistant as well. It is also performance rated over a 5-year period for no more than 10% pile weight loss.

Graphics carpet featuring Marvess yarn retains its appearance after heavy traffic over a longer period of time and resists static buildup, too. Additionally, it passes the Department of Commerce's Standard DOC f-1-70 "pill test" for flammability.

No other contract carpet will give you the durability, lasting color retention and wide choice of brilliant colors.

CLEMSON — The challenge came at 4 p.m. on Friday, August 18: A computer model of South Carolina drought damage and a hay distribution plan were needed by Monday — just in case stories of large hay donations from Midwestern farmers should prove true.

Within minutes a team of Clemson University agricultural economists was pounding computer keys, prepared to work through the weekend in which forecasters were predicting temperatures would climb above 100° F.

At 6 p.m. Benton Box, acting vice presi-agents, specialists and administrators to exhaustion.

Before 9 p.m. a rough computer model was ready, the distribution plan was prepared, and calls for help had gone out to the news media in three states.

The media gave the story top billing. When Clemson Extension offices in Anderson, Greenville and Laurens opened at 7:00 a.m. Saturday, farmers, some of whom had nothing left to feed their livestock, were in line to sign up for hay. Many of them were waiting in another line on a hot airstrip later that day when the first Air Force C-147 touched down at Greenville.

Since then hay has come from almost every state and Canada, arriving by plane, cooker. Staffers, using telephones and computers, coordinated offers of free hay, arranged transportation, scheduled deliveries to counties and notified Extension agents who were ultimately responsible for getting farmers to pick-up sites. There were hundreds of calls from the news media and a constant stream of news people through the room. In September, Extension moved its Hay Central operation to the Clemson campus.

With hay distribution demanding top priority, Extension programs to help farmers deal with the aftermath of the worst drought in the state's recorded history had to temporarily take a back seat. Trucks and box cars were rolling into every county and more than one Extension agent was awakened in the middle of the night by a call from a trucker waiting on the edge of town with a load of hay, a load that was totally unexpected.

Amid the heat, drought, pressure and frustration, numerous moving human stories have appeared, says Webb. These include:

— A Midwestern family who donated its own hay and arranged large shipments of hay from neighbors. When truckers arrived to pick up the hay, they found the family was so poor it had no running water in the home.

— Little of the donated hay went to waste. A farmer brought a hay baler to one unloading site to bale the loose hay left as rail cars were unloaded.

— In Lexington County a local high school football team helped unload hay and in the Midwest high school football teams helped load hay at several sites.

— Extension personnel noticed three young men with a prison crew working very hard all day. They found out the three weren't prisoners, but Methodist camp counselors who came and quietly began work without telling anyone.

Operation Haylift

The Clemson Extension Service played a big part in providing relief to Southern farmers.

dent/vice provost for agriculture and natural resource, threw the Monday deadline out the window when he announced that two military airplanes carrying 2,000 bales of hay from Illinois would land at Greenville about noon the next day.

"Governor Riley has asked the Clemson Extension Service to distribute all free hay coming into the state. We need a plan immediately to get to newspapers and radio and TV stations before deadlines," he said.

Thus Clemson University became directly involved in a farmer-to-farmer relief effort that touched the heart of America and worked many Clemson Extension truck and by rail. In early September more than 500,000 bales had been distributed to more than 8,000 farmers and more was arriving daily.

"The haylift, one of the most generous and heartwarming relief efforts in many years, has been especially touching and faith-restoring for the Cooperative Extension Service," says B. K. Webb, Clemson Extension Service director.

A Hay Central, set up August 20 in Columbia, was staffed by the Governor's office, the S. C. Department of Agriculture, the Emergency Preparedness Office and the Clemson Extension Service.

Clemson head swimming coach Bob Boettner had told his men's team for the past 10 years, "If you win the Atlantic Coast Conference title, I will take a 'dip'." Not a "dip" of Skoal, but a dip in the pool. Boettner was given that opportunity "to take a dip" this past March as the men's squad captured its first-ever ACC title.

Rather than letting the team throw him in the pool for a swim, Boettner thought he could do better. "We've had some big wins over the last few years, and it's a tradition after a big win to throw the coach in. They managed to live up to their end of the bargain, so I went for a BIG dip, off the 3-meter board with my clothes still on my back."

As for the Lady Tigers, they placed seventh at the NAAs and seized three indi-team, but we made all the meets close."

Leading the Tiger men's squad last season was two-time winner of the ACC Diver-of-the-Year award Chuck Wade and Aronberg, a distance freestyle record holder.

Wade, currently a junior from Brandon, FL, posted the second highest dual-meet point total for the '85-86 season behind Aronberg. Diving coach Pat Greenwell says of Wade, "Along with teammate Dave Hrovat (who finished third behind Wade in the diving events at the ACC Championship), we should continue to dominate diving in the ACC."

Aronberg, the muscle of the Clemson swim team from Rochester, NY, impacted the record books in an impressive fashion. "If his post-season efforts are any indication of his performance over the senior Linda Rutter in the 500 freestyle and 200 butterfly, and Molly Kueny with her record setting seventh-place finish in the 1650 freestyle.

The women also received All-America honors for their efforts in the 200 and 400 medley relay and the 800 freestyle relay events. Those members included Linda Hughes, Kitty Christian, Jan Kemmerling, Kueny, Rutter, Simmons and Hayden.

Grasping the opportunity to gain more NCAA qualifying experience for the team, Boettner has slated one of the strongest schedules to date. The Lady Tigers go up against five teams which placed in the top 16 at the NCAA, including a home dual meet against the '86 NCAA runner-up Florida Gators. The men will swim against two teams that placed in the top 30 at NAAs, which also includes the fourth-place finishing Florida Gators. Also both squads travel to Omaha to compete in the Nebraska Invitational.

So next season you might possibly see Boettner walking around sporting a rubber suit to protect himself from all the possible damage that the "dips" could bring him during the 1986-87 season.

Taking A Dip

Bob Boettner has both Clemson swimming teams making waves nationally.

vidual All-America swims (finishing in the top eight in the nation) at the NAAs in Fayetteville, AK. Also four individuals placed in the top 16 to receive honorable mention All-America honors. Of the three relay teams which Boettner sent to the NAAs two captured sixth and one captured 11th. This was the best finish ever by a Tiger swim team at the NAAs.

Boettner had this to say concerning the women's fine NCAA finish. "If (Rudy) Grodsky had not crushed her hand against the wall on the first day of competition at the ACC meet, we could possibly have been in the running for the ACC championship and probably finished as high as fourth or fifth at the NAAs. Prior to Grodsky's injury, she set three school records and all three times were better than the winning marks in the respective events at the ACCs."

With the way the men performed in the regular season, Boettner would have never guessed he would still be drying his clothes. During the regular season the men posted a disappointing 3-5 dual meet record before coming out of the dark to capture their first-ever championship.

As freshman standout and three-event school record-holder Rick Aronberg noted, "A lot of the teams rested and shaved for us during the regular season. I guess they decided a win over Clemson would boost their ego. We never rested for any next three years, he could end up becoming one of the top-five distance freestylers in the country," says Boettner. At NAAs Rick finished 15th in the 1650 freestyle with his record-setting mark of 15:16.53. His mark shattered the school record by 10 seconds. Probably the most impressive mark that Aronberg bestowed upon the Clemson swimming world was his dual meet record — 15 wins in 18 starts.

The picture for the 1985-86 season was just as great on the women's side as 1986 ACC Swimmer-of-the-Year Pam Hayden led the squad to their seventh-place NCAA finish. During the regular season, Pam Hayden was a star as the squad established 13 individual school records, and three relay and one ACC record.

Hayden, currently a junior from North Vernon, IN, holds five individual Clemson school and pool records. By scoring 73 points at the ACC Championships, she earned the honor of being named ACC-Swimmer-of-the-Year. She went on to receive All-America honors for her labors in the 500 freestyle and 200 butterfly, and she also garnered honorable-mention honors in the 200 freestyle.

Another highlight for the Lady Tigers in 1985-86 was the vast amount of All-America awards received for their individual and relay efforts. Other NCAA All-America recipients beside Hayden included Nadra Simmons in the 100 back stroke, 1985-86

Boettner hopes to get soaked again in 1987.

On opening day of the 1986 NFL season most fans around the country viewed the Chicago Bears-Cleveland Browns contest. The impact of the Clemson football program on the pro ranks was documented from the very first offensive snap as AFC Rookie-of-the-Year Kevin Mack took the handoff and ran right into William Perry, probably the most celebrated football player in the league. Perry and Mack both played their college ball at Clemson and had a big impact on the NFL in their first seasons.

They are just two of 20 former Tigers in pro football (17 active and three on injured reserve). Here is a rundown of the current players and a summary of their careers so far.

Professional Tigers

Clemson has contributed more than just the Frigate to the NFL.

Cliff Austin . . . RB . . . Atlanta Falcons . . . Cliff is in his fourth year in the NFL, his third with the Falcons . . . had a career high 104 yards in 27 carries in the season opener as a starter and was second on the club in rushing after the second game with 127 yards . . . served as a reserve in 1985 in Atlanta and had 20 carries for 110 yards, a 5.5-yard average . . . led Atlanta and was ninth in the NFC in kickoff returns with a 21.5 yard average . . . Cliff still holds the Clemson single game rushing record with 260 yards against Duke in 1982 . . . starter for National Championship Clemson team, he played at Clemson between 1978 and 1982.

Dan Benish . . . DT . . . Atlanta Falcons . . . Every year the media says Dan Benish will never make the Atlanta Falcons and every year he comes back to camp to prove them wrong

. . . now in his fourth season, he started in 1985 and has now played in 47 of the last 48 games for the Falcons . . . one of only three Tigers to make the NFL as a free agent . . . he is a reserve this season, but could challenge for a starting slot by mid-season . . . has withheld the challenge of three first-round draft choices at his position in the last three seasons . . . a starter for the National Championship Clemson team, he played at Clemson between 1979 and 1982.

Jeff Bostic . . . C . . . Washington Redskins . . . One of the original "Hogs" of the Washington Redskins offensive line . . . now in his seventh year in pro football, his sixth as a starter . . . signed as a free agent out of Clemson in 1980 with the Philadelphia Eagles, the Redskins picked him up as a snapper . . . improved and became a starter the next year . . . injured a knee last year and played in just 10 games . . . starter for two Super Bowl teams (1982 and 1983), and played in Pro Bowl following 1983 season . . . veteran of 75 NFL games heading into this season . . . currently starting center for the Redskins . . . played at Clemson between 1977 and 1979, he played in three straight bowl games.

Joe Bostic . . . OG . . . St. Louis Cardinals . . . Now in his eighth season as a starter for the St. Louis Cardinals . . . a third-round choice of the Cardinals in 1979, he has been a starter ever since and is a veteran of exactly 100 NFL games heading into this season, he had started the last 32 in a row prior to this season . . . attended Clemson between 1975 and 1978, he played on two bowl teams at Tigertown . . . two-time All-American at Clemson . . . only Dwight Clark has been in more pro games among active Clemson players in the pros.

Jeff Bryant . . . DT . . . Seattle Seahawks . . . In his fourth season as a starter with the Seattle Seahawks, he ranked in the top 15 in the NFC in quarterback sacks last year with 8.5 . . . had played in 57 games heading into this season and was a member of Seattle team that played in AFC championship in 1983 . . . started all 16 games last year and the first four this season . . . had 73 tackles last season to go with his sack total and led the team in fumble recoveries with four . . . starter on Clemson's National Championship team and was the number-six pick in the NFL draft following that 1981 season . . . played at Clemson between 1978 and 1981 and played in three bowl games.

Jerry Butler . . . WR . . . Buffalo Bills . . . Came back from serious knee surgery to record his highest yards per catch figure ever last year . . . had 41 catches for 770 yards (18.8 yards a catch) in 16 games in 1985 . . . missed all of 1984 with the injury . . . still going strong in 1986, he was averaging over 30 yards a catch after three games . . . had four receptions for 103 yards against the Bears in an exhibition game this year . . . AFC Rookie-of-the-Year in 1979 . . . still holds NFL Rookie receiving record for a game when he had 10 catches for 255 yards and four touchdowns in 1979 . . . had a career high 57 catches in 1980 . . . played at Clemson between 1975 and 1978 . . . still holds Clemson record for catching passes in 35 consecutive games . . . earliest draft pick in Clemson history, he was the fifth choice in the entire 1979 draft.

Dwight Clark . . . WR . . . San Francisco 49ers . . . Despite the fact that he was the 249th player chosen in the NFL draft of 1979, Clark has become a star of the NFL . . . led the NFL in receptions in 1982 with 60, he caught a career high 10 TD passes last year . . . a member of two Super Bowl Championship teams at San Francisco and a Pro Bowl selection after the 1981 and 1982 football seasons . . . veteran of 105 NFL games, more than any other active Tiger . . . got off to a great start this year with seven catches for 100 yards against Tampa Bay . . . he duplicated the feat two weeks ago against New Orleans . . . has caught at least 50

Jerry Butler (at right) was a happy man after he set NFL rookie records in 1979. Here he is congratulated by quarterback Joe Ferguson after catching 10 passes for 255 yards in a game in 1979.

Clemson's all-time punting leader on a net and overall basis ... starter on National Championship team as a freshman ... played at Clemson between 1981 and 1984.

Andy Headen ... LB ... New York Giants ... An eighth-round draft pick who is now a veteran of 43 NFL games ... has served as a starter and reserve in his three previous seasons, he is a reserve so far this season ... comes in for blitzing situations ... had an 81-yard fumble return for a touchdown in 1984 and had two pass interceptions last season ... starter on 1981 National Championship Clemson team ... made the bandit end famous at Clemson ... played at Clemson between 1979 and 1982 and played strong safety, cornerback, linebacker, defensive end and returned kickoffs.

Donald Igwebuike ... PK ... Tampa Bay Bucs ... A 10th-round pick who is starting in the NFL ... came to Clemson to play soccer and ended up as a starter in both sports ... hit 22-32 field goals last year and 30 extra points to lead Tampa Bay in scoring ... succeeded another former Clemson placekicker, Obed Ariri, at Tampa Bay, the player who taught him how to kick ... had 19 non-returnable kickoffs in 1985 and was four for his first five this year ... only athlete in Clemson history to start for two Top 10 Clemson teams in the same semester (soccer and football) ... starter on National Championship team ... played at Clemson between 1981 and 1984.

Steve Kenney ... OG ... Detroit Lions ... Recently signed with the Detroit Lions, he has played this year with that club ... spent first six years with the Philadelphia Eagles ... starter for five of those years and a veteran of 80 NFL games altogether ... one of three Tigers in the pros who signed as a free agent ... played in Super Bowl for Philadelphia following the 1980 season ... played at Clemson between 1975 and 1978.

Terry Kinard ... FS ... New York Giants ... Now in his fourth year as a starter for the Giants ... veteran of 50 games and had 12 interceptions through the third week of this season ... had two interceptions and another called back in a game early this season ... had 25 tackles in first three games ... sixth in NFC in interception return yards with 100 in 1985 ... chosen by the Giants in the first round of the 1983 draft and was the 10th pick overall ... CBS Sports Defensive Player-of-the-Year for the 1982 season ... two-time All-American ... only two-time consensus All-American in Clemson history and only unanimous All-American ... starter for National Championship team and played at Clemson between 1978 and 1982.

Kevin Mack ... RB ... Cleveland Browns ... AFC Offensive Rookie-of-the-Year according to some polls last year ... 10th in the NFL in rushing with 1,104 yards ... also scored 10 touchdowns to rank sixth in the NFC ... had a 5.0 average in rushing and had 29 catches for 297 yards ... started his career in the USFL with Los Angeles (1984) ... in his second season as a starter ... had 50 yards in 10 carries and a touchdown in the season opener against the Bears, but he suffered a shoulder injury ...

Canadian Connection

Don't forget about our neighbors to the north. Four former Tigers are doing very well in the Canadian Football League. Perry Tuttle has resurrected his pro career with the Winnipeg Jets. Tuttle was in fourth place in the league in pass receiving two weeks ago with 49 catches for 741 yards and seven touchdowns. He was with three NFL teams in 1985 and thought about packing it up.

Chuck McSwain and Homer Jordan are also doing well in Winnipeg.

Lester Brown, who played at Clemson between 1976 and 1979, is fifth in the CFL in rushing with 400 yards, while he is third in kickoff return yardage with 431. He has been in the CFL since the 1980 season when he was cut by the Dallas Cowboys.

member of National Championship team at Clemson and was on the club between 1980 and 1983.

Rod McSwain ... CB ... New England Patriots ... Currently on the injured reserve list for the Patriots ... member of Super Bowl Patriots team last year as a reserve cornerback ... injured a shoulder this year in preseason game with the Raiders ... had one interception last year and is reliable member of the special teams ... member of National Championship team at Clemson, he played between 1980 and 1983.

William Perry ... MG ... Chicago Bears ... Most celebrated rookie in NFL history last year ... helped Bears to Super Bowl title in his rookie year, just as he helped Clemson to National Championship in his first year at Clemson ... member of NFL All-Rookie team ... took sport by storm when he became heaviest player ever to score a touchdown on a set play ... had five rushes for the season for seven yards, but scored two touchdowns ... also scored on a TD pass and nearly scored again on a 66-yard fumble return ... had 57 tackles for the season ... off to a good start this year, he had a career high nine tackles in the second game of the year ... played at Clemson between 1981 and 1984.

Johnny Rembert ... LB ... New England Patriots ... Has a penchant for scoring touchdowns ... had a fumble recovery in the endzone for a score in the second game this year ... also scored one in the playoffs last year and had another in the regular season on blocked punt return ... reserve linebacker who played in the Super Bowl last year, one of four players from Clemson who saw action in that game ... member of National Championship team and played at Clemson between 1981 and 1982 ... third-team All-American in 1982 when he set Clemson record for interceptions by a linebacker with five.

Jim Stuckey ... DT ... San Francisco 49ers ... Owns two Super Bowl Championship rings with the 49ers ... starter with 49ers off and on in his career ... retired this fall, then came back before season started ... has been with San Francisco between 1980 and now ... has played in three NFC Championship Games ... played at Clemson between 1976 and 1979 ... All-American his final season and a first-round draft pick ... presently on injured reserve.

Tiger Life

For the past 52 years thousands of you have displayed your unsurpassed loyalty to Clemson by making IPTAY one of the greatest athletic scholarship groups in America.

Now there are some individuals who want to make another unique effort for Clemson by providing an endowment to assure the future security and success of the Clemson Athletic Department.

Tiger Life is a program through which you can make an affordable investment over a few years to insure a sizable future gift to the Clemson Athletic Department.

Listed below are a few individuals who with a few others who wish to remain anonymous have arranged for gifts in excess of $2,000,000 to the Clemson Athletic Department Endowment.

Mr. Mark S. Avent
Mr. David E. Cleveland
Mr. Daniel H. Coker, Jr.
Mrs. Rebecca D. Coker
Mr. and Mrs. R. Allison Dalton
Mr. James Engram
Mr. Rodney C. Foster
Mr. Jimmy K. Gerrald
Mr. and Mrs. Jane P. Gough
Mr. David A. Gray
Mr. and Mrs. Elbert L. Henderson
Mr. Landrum H. Henderson
Mr. and Mrs. Timothy H. Hester
Mr. and Mrs. T. Carroll Holcombe

Mr. and Mrs. Terry M. Horne
Mr. Daniel E. Hunt

Ms. Deana G. Lynch
Ms. Terri D. Lynch
Mr. Thomas C. Lynch, III
Mr. Charles D. Miller
Mr. James B. Prince
Mr. Kevin H. Prince
Mr. Robert W. Robinson
Mr. J. Christian Swift
Mr. and Mrs. Sam White

If you think you would like to consider this unique opportunity you may call Bert Henderson or Allison Dalton at (803) 656-2101 or write either of them at P. O. Box 31, Clemson, SC 29633.

This is a good opportunity to do something for Clemson that will make a big difference forever.

Nuclear energy is part of our way of life.

Fortunately, so is Chem-Nuclear.

Nuclear energy is important to us in South Carolina—it is used to generate more than half of the electricity we use. So, when you turn on the lights, or the television, there's a good chance the electricity you're using comes from a nuclear generating plant.

Nuclear energy and technology are also vitally important in medical research and the treatment of many diseases. Industries, too, use nuclear materials in productive, socially useful applications.

But like almost every other aspect of modern life, both the production of electricity and the other uses of nuclear technology create waste. Most materials that come into contact with radioactive substances become contaminated and must be properly handled. Even slightly contaminated articles like tools and rags have to be disposed of with care.

That's where Chem-Nuclear comes in. We've developed much of the technology used in the management of low level radioactive waste—from processing, packaging, and transportation to permanent disposal. And we provide all those services to utilities, hospitals, universities and industries in every area of South Carolina.

These Chem-Nuclear services all have one goal—protecting public health and safety and preserving our environment. Everything we do is carried out with the highest degree of safety-consciousness and attention to detail—no corners are cut.

Modern life produces waste. Whether it's your family's garbage that can be hauled to a sanitary landfill, or the low level radioactive waste produced when you turn on a light, it must be managed properly if the quality of our environment is to be maintained.

All of us play a part in the generation of low level radioactive waste. Fortunately, Chem-Nuclear can handle it.

Tires: Goodyear Eagle VR S "Gatorback" street radials.*

The fact that both of these Corvettes are on Goodyear Eagle street radials is no coincidence.

The 1986 Corvette Convertible.
Factory specified tires: Goodyear Eagle VR "Gatorback" street radials.

Every Corvette made since 1984 comes with just one make of tire: the Goodyear Eagle VR "Gatorback" street radial.

Which is no coincidence.

Because the Eagle VR "Gatorback" was developed specifically for the Corvette's tremendous cornering, handling and speed capabilities.

Considering the performance of the Eagle VR "Gatorback," it's not surprising that successful

SCCA Showroom Stock Endurance racing teams like Rippie/Anderson also choose an Eagle street radial.*

The Eagle VR S "Gatorback," a version of the Eagle VR "Gatorback" made for ultimate grip rather than ultimate treadlife.

The success of both the Eagle VR and VR S "Gatorbacks" has a common source:

Goodyear's ability to engineer better high-performance radials. For virtually every performance car.

So it's really no coincidence that the Eagle VR is to be found on every Corvette made.

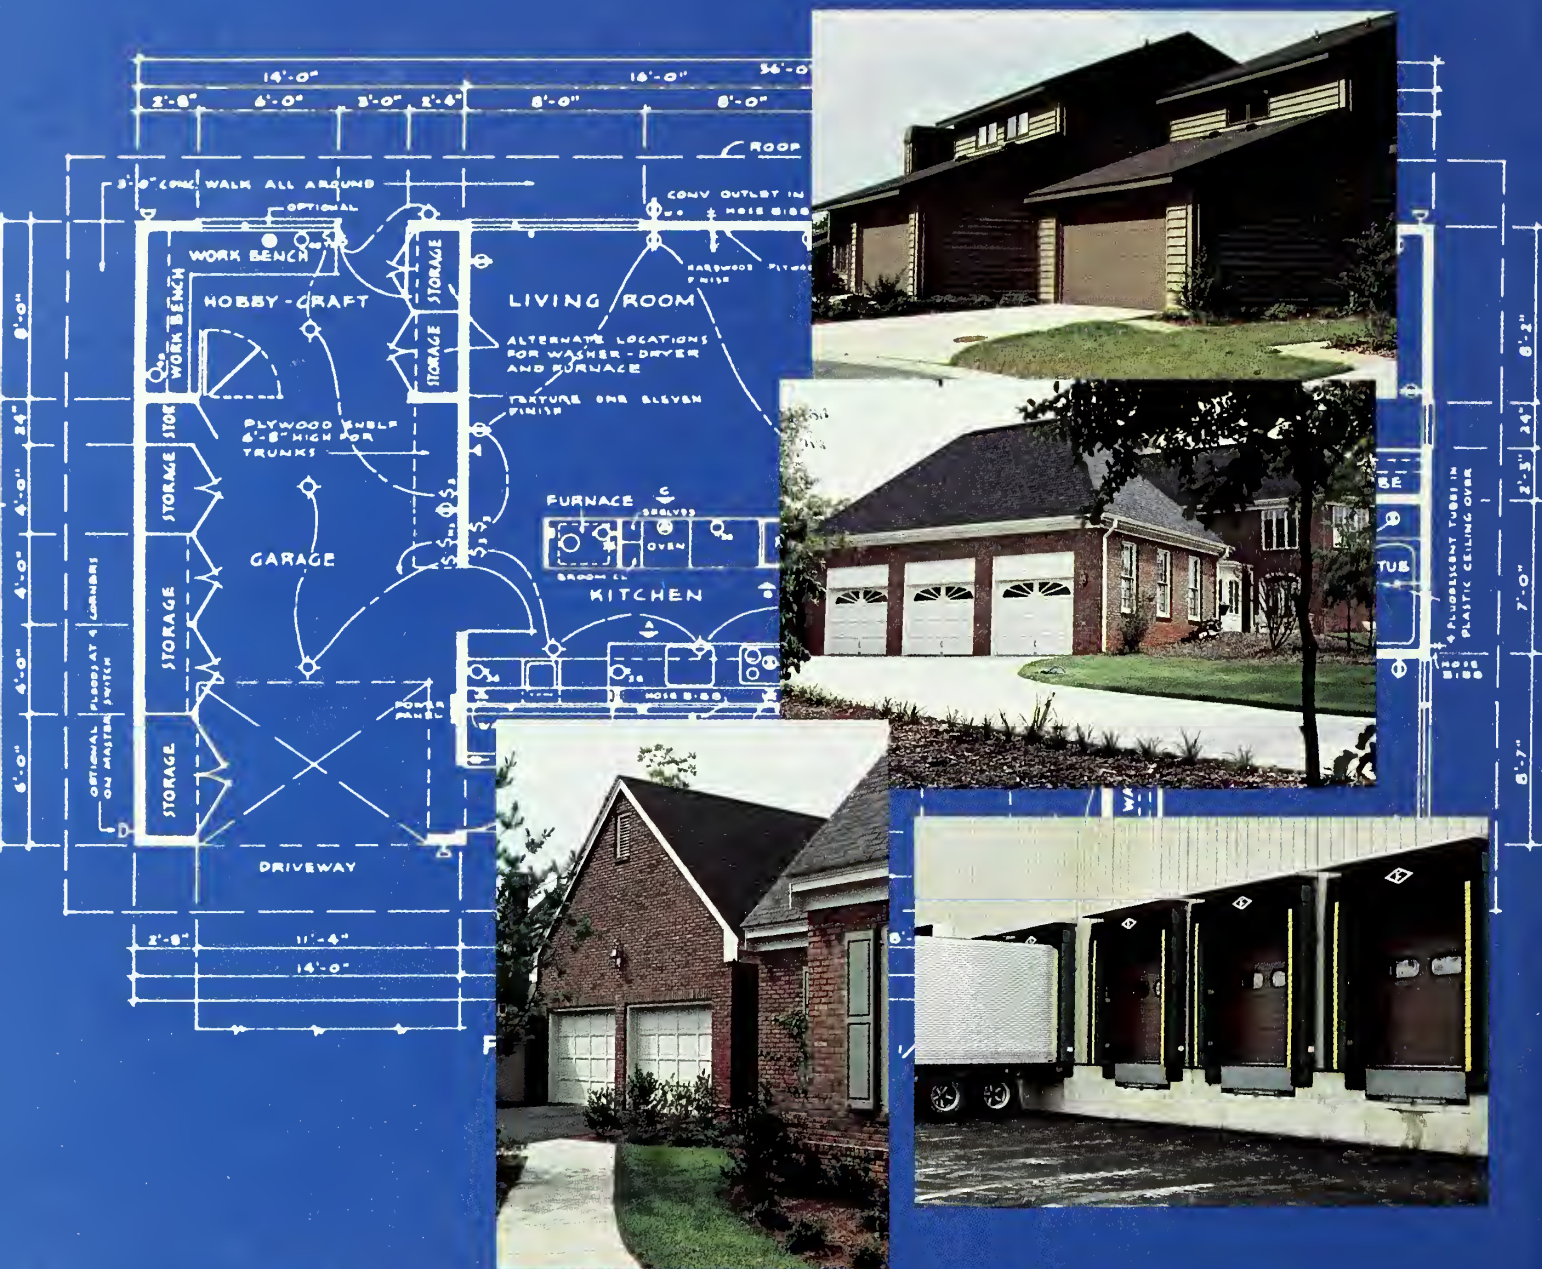

Or that the Eagle VR S is the favorite tire of people who race Corvettes in the SCCA Showroom Stock Endurance Series.

In fact, when you think of how the Eagles perform, it's no coincidence at all.

THE EXPERT'S CHOICE

Architects, designers, engineers and planners have a tough job — finding the perfect balance of beauty and function, security and low maintenance, energy efficiency and ease of operation — all at a reasonable cost and, often, on an unreasonable schedule.

Since 1921, Overhead Door has been helping the experts find that perfect balance. Overhead Door has a complete line of sectional and rolling doors for residential, commercial and industrial applications. And an experienced team of representatives to help find innovative solutions for special applications that require custom-designed units.

Every Overhead Door product is designed, engineered and manufactured with strict quality control and backed by over 60 years of unexcelled experience and service. Specify Overhead Door products — the expert's choice.

TIGER HISTORY

by Foster Senn

Unusual things happen in college football: bands take on teams (Stanford vs. California, 1983), coaches take on players (Clemson vs. Ohio State, 1978), and fans take on opponents. That happened this day in 1980 at Death Valley.

It really seemed like any other fall Saturday. Clemson led Virginia Tech 13-10 in the fourth quarter when Gobbler quarterback Steve Casey came to the line for a fourth-and-goal play at the Clemson one-yard line. Casey was ready for this; he had practiced the situation many times back in Blacksburg. But there was something different this time. It was one of those unusual "Death Valley" Saturdays.

As Casey came to the line, the Clemson Homecoming crowd rose with a tremendous roar. Casey said his team couldn't hear his signals and backed off the line. After huddling, he again brought the team to the line and again said his team couldn't hear, and backed off the line. This new contest within a contest then took over the game and created some questions. Would Casey go ahead and play? Would frightened cows in Seneca give milk next week? Would this game be over by Thanksgiving?

The situation was repeated over and over — Gobblers up to the line, tremendous roar, "We can't hear," rehuddle. Finally the officials grew weary of the struggle and charged Clemson with a timeout. Now with the crowd quieter, and 17 minutes after the initial move to the line, Tech tried to run a play, but an offensive lineman moved, drawing a penalty. Clemson's defense then held Virginia Tech to a field goal and shut down a late Virginia Tech drive to capture the "Noise Bowl" 13-10. Casey had been out shouted.

That is just one of many exciting Tiger were subsequently punished, this game between these teams was billed as the "Probation Bowl." It wasn't much of a game. The third-ranked Terrapins used the running and passing of Jack Scarbath to drop the Tigers 28-0 at Byrd Stadium in College Park in front of 32,000 fans.

1958 — Tenth-ranked Clemson defeated Maryland 8-0 at College Park as Harvey White connected with Wyatt Cox contests to take place on October 4. Clemson has battled many times on this day, providing many exciting moments.

1902 — John Heisman's Clemson squad topped NC A&M 11-5 in the rain at Bowman Field on this day. Pee Wee Forsythe, Vet Sitton, and Hope Saddler were the Clemson stars, according to a dispatch by D. W. Daniel. Daniel went on to be a Clemson professor for 49 years and one of Clemson's most revered men. It is he for whom Daniel Hall is named.

1952 — Because both Clemson and Maryland had gone to bowls the preceding year against conference rules and for a 50-yard touchdown pass for the only score of the day. Lou Cordileone helped save the game for the Tigers when he ward off several blockers to stop a breakaway Maryland runner.

1969 — For years Frank Howard had brought his Clemson teams to Georgia Tech's Grant Field with high hopes and expectations. Maybe there was some sort of hex on the Tigers because, since 1945, they had left Atlanta losers. This time, however, thanks to Ray Yauger, there was a happier ride home. With the Tigers trailing 10-0 at the half, Yauger went wild in the second half.

He caught two touchdown passes from Tommy Kendrick and barrelled in from two yards out for another score to propel Clemson to a 21-10 victory. For the day, Yauger carried the ball 23 times for 146 yards.

After the contest, Tech's former legendary coach Bobby Dodd proclaimed Yauger "a great one." Howard said, "I call Yauger my tractor. He ain't got a lot of speed, but, oh, ain't he got the power!" Charlie Waters had seven receptions for 101 yards to help the Tigers.

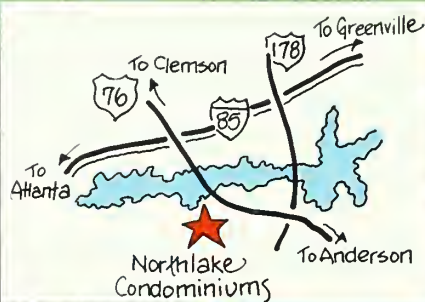

The NCAA crowd noise rule was born at Clemson.

TIGER BAND

by David Webb

Tradition and honor. Few schools nationwide, much less in the South, hold these traits so dear as do Clemson and The Citadel. Tradition and honor are the very vanguards of pride at these institutions. And so, it is most fitting that another source of tradition and honor be recognized at today's football game — the family — on Parents' Day in Death Valley.

Tiger Band is a source for Clemson pride and it will show that emotion as it starts Death Valley action today with its traditional pregame show. Tiger fans will be invited to their feet by the strident chords of "Sock It To 'Em," the Orange Bowl March, and "Tiger Rag."

Parents' Day

Twenty-six current members have relatives who are Tiger Band Alums.

As Tiger Band spells the word "Tigers," today's guest of honor dotting the "i" will be Dr. Robert Rouse of the College of Commerce & Industry. Dr. Rouse is the 1986 recipient of the Alumni Master Professor award, given annually to a member of the Clemson faculty who has distinguished him- or herself. Dr. Rouse was nominated by students and selected from a list of other nominees. Dr. Rouse teaches accounting and is a sponsor for the Blue Key Honor Society. He and his wife Jane, a visiting instructor of French, are also active members at the Church of the Holy Trinity (Episcopal) in Clemson.

The pregame show continues with Tiger Band's rendition of "You're A Grand Old Flag," "America The Beautiful," directed by Dr. Richard E. Goodstein and accompanied by the Clemson University Chorus; "The Star-Spangled Banner," directed by Dr. Bruce F. Cook; and the heart-stirring Clemson University Alma Mater, directed by Mr. Mark Jessie. The colors will be presented by an entourage from Pershing Rifles, Company C-4, and the invocation will be offered by The Reverend Steve Bossi. Father Bossi is a priest at St. Andrews Catholic Church and leads the Clemson Catholic Student Association.

While the teams catch their breath at halftime, Tiger Band will start the intermission entertainment with their show entitled "Music From The Old West." The program will commence with "How The West Was Won," the theme of the mini-series of the same title. Next, the flags and twirlers will be featured when Tiger Band plays "Home On The Range." This selection was written by Larry Kerchner and is a jazz rendition of the old American folk tune. "Music From The Old West" will conclude with the theme from the movie "Silverado," written in 1985 by Bruce Broughton. However, no Clemson half-time show would be complete unless it ended with Tiger Band's salute to Tigers in the West and elsewhere with "The Song That Shakes The Southland" — TIGER RAG!!!

After that spirited departure, Death Valley guests will have the opportunity to collect themselves as they are entertained by an eight-minute silent drill. Performing the drill will be the Summerall Guards, an elite corps of cadets chosen from around the state. The guards are selected through auditions, and the selection is considered an honor. Whereas concentration is essential, the audience is respectfully requested to remain silent throughout the performance.

In salute to Parents' Day, this week's Tiger Band feature highlights those "second-generation" members of Tiger Band.

Among current members, four had fathers in Tiger Band, eight had older brothers that marched, and 14 have older sisters who are Tiger Band alumni. Furthermore, there are three sets of sisters in the 1986 edition of Tiger band.

Among some of the more interesting bits of Tiger Band History Trivia — Robert Bedenbaugh and Kevin Hawkins are both Tiger Band (TB) sons. Their fathers both played in TB together in the late 1950's. As they put it, "What an incredible coincidence!" Jerry Moody is the self-proclaimed "last of a long line" of TB members. Moody has two brothers and two sisters who all played in TB continuously from 1969-83. Moody, a senior, has kept the line unbroken to this point. Indeed, for almost two decades, TB has put out some "moody" music. As Dr. Richard Goodstein surmised, "Tiger band certainly is a family affair!"

The 1986 Tiger Band staff includes drum majors Jim McKenrick and Billy Baker, as well as commander James Grubb. Cheryll Crenshaw is Flags Coordinator, and Marcell Frese serves as Percussion Teaching Assistant. The veteran "Voice That Shakes The Southland," Nick Peck, is the Tiger Band Announcer.

New Developments

During the past few months other facility improvements have been underway. A new recruiting area on the club level is used on the west end of the south stands. Built this summer, prospective athletes can enjoy a meal, watch the game and learn more about Clemson University. "The recruiting area can seat about 250 people," commented Clyde Wrenn, assistant athletic director. "We have tables and serving lines for lunch and also a large screen TV. We also have an area to show slides of the campus. This will be an advantage to us in the area of recruiting and I think our facility is as good as any in America."

The home dressing room area also underwent a face lift this summer and is now one of the best anywhere. "The home dressing room is probably one of the finest on the east coast," said Equipment Manager Bobby Douglas. "We recently put in new lockers, a new air filtration system, remodeled the shower area, and added a new training room. They are better than some professional teams' locker rooms." The old prospect room adjacent to the Clemson locker room was changed to a coach's conference room. This gives the coaches a quiet place to meet during the week and review films.

A few new graphics also dress up the stadium this season. A new 40-foot Tiger paw that glows at night adorns the side of the upper deck on the south side, while an official greeting on the facing of the north deck also adds to the appearance.

The playing surface of Memorial Stadium has also undergone some intensive work in the past few months. There are 27 sprinkler heads on the field and nine on the hill. The new grass is a mixture of hybrid bermuda and common bermuda. Ronnie Oliver of Environmental Landscaping commented on the surface. "It is an excellent field for drainage. After another year's work there will be no field anywhere any better. We have worked very hard on the field this past year and we have also done a lot of work on the hill. We dumped 500 cubic yards of topsoil on the hill and hopefully the grass will hold throughout the season."

"The bigger the stadium the more funds you have to spend on the whole athletic program," said Bobby Robinson in conclusion. "It goes along with the same philosophy that when you do something, do it right. We think it is the best stadium in the country. This same philosophy should apply to everything and the stadium means a lot to our total program."

We've certainly come a long way since the day Frank Howard and a group of football players polished off 50 gallons of ice cream. But had it not been for his foresight and perseverance, Clemson Memorial Stadium and Clemson football would not have risen to among the nation's best.

Tigers In the Crowd

— Kassie Kessinger

Molly Kueny
High Point, NC

Kueny, 21, is one of Clemson's top returning swimmers. Last year, as a junior, she played a key role in helping the 1985 Lady Tiger club finish seventh at the NAAs, the highest national finish ever by a Clemson swim team. Kueny reaped honorable mention All-America honors at the NAAs in the 1650 freestyle, placing ninth, and as a member of the 800 freestyle relay team, which took fifth overall. A distance freestyle specialist, Kueny presently is the school record holder in the 1000 and 1650 freestyle events. As a sophomore Kueny was a NCAA qualifier in the 1650 free and she was a member of Clemson's 800 freestyle relay team which took seventh place at the 1985 NCAA meet. She has been ranked as high as 15th in the world in the 1500 freestyle. A parks, recreation and tourism management major, Kueny was born August 19, 1965.

Denise Murphy
Alexandria, VA

Murphy, 21, is one of Clemson's top returning student-athletes. Last season, as a junior member of Clemson's volleyball squad, Murphy earned first-team All-ACC honors and was selected to the GTE/CoSIDA Academic All-America team. This season marks the third in which she has served as team captain. Her invaluable contributions on the court in 1985 also led to her selection as Clemson's most valuable volleyball player. Last year she played in all 129 games for the Lady Tigers, carving out such notable marks as team leader in kills (414), most total attempts (1192), and most defensive saves (434). Already she is Clemson's career leader in the above mentioned categories. Most outstanding of all is her overall cumulative grade point ratio of 3.90 based on a 4.00 scale in zoology. All three academic years Murphy has been named to the ACC's Academic Honor Roll. She was born February 2, 1965.

Julie Larson Brickley
Sumter, SC

Brickley, 21, is Clemson's only four-year senior member of Coach Annie Tribble's 11th Lady Tiger basketball squad. She also is the only married member of the club, having tied the knot with former Tiger gridder Glen Brickley June 7, 1986. Brickley enters her final campaign ranked 12th on the all-time scoring chart with 799 points. She has averaged nearly 9.9 points a game in the 81 she has played in. Her outstanding shooting eye has already put her atop Clemson's all-time leaders in field goal percentage with a .544 figure. She paced the club in rebounding a year ago (6.8) and tallied 13.8 points an outing. The 6-3 senior tossed in 20 points or more four times, including a high water mark of 25 points in the University of Kentucky Invitational. Julie wears number 50 and is an education major. She was born January 29, 1965.

Brad Clark
Waterloo, IA

Clark, 20, returns for his third campaign with the Tigers following an outstanding sophomore season in which he won the NCAA Long-Driving Championship with a poke of 333 yards. He was the only Tiger to qualify in individual play at the NAAs after carding an opening-round 68. The 5-11, 170-pounder led Clemson last season in terms of stroke average with a 73.32 figure. And, his two-year career stroke total of 74.06 ranks third among Clemson's career average leaders. He was a starter in every tournament, finishing in the top 10 three times. His best three-day effort ever came at the Schenkel when he carded a 210. He had a fine rookie year in 1985, capped by a record-breaking performance in the ACC tournament, in which he shot an all-time Clemson, ACC and course record 63. Born July 7, 1966, Clark is majoring in administrative management at Clemson.

Marcus Black
Fayetteville, NC

Black, 21, is the defending Atlantic Coast Conference 400-meter track champion. With this victory at the 1986 ACC meet, Black ended a 26-year absence of a Clemson athlete atop the victory stand for the 400 meters at the conference meet. Black was one of five Clemson Tigers to qualify for the men's 1986 NCAA Outdoor Championships as he competed in the 400 meters. During the indoor season he turned in a NCAA qualifying time of 1:01.8 in the 500 meters by winning the Clemson Early Season Invitational and setting a school record in the process. He also picked up wins in this event at the Florida Invitational and at the VMI Relays. The speedster came to Clemson by way of VMI, where he was a two-year letter-winner and a member of that school's All-America 1600-meter relay team. Black was born October 13, 1966 and is majoring in economics at Clemson.

Billy Orr
Newton, NJ

Orr, 19, turned in an outstanding season for the Tigers last year as a red-shirt freshman. Wrestling in the 158-pound class, Orr claimed third place at the 1986 Atlantic Coast Conference Wrestling Championship. As a result of his outstanding rookie season, Amateur Wrestling News named Orr to that publication's freshman All-America team. He registered four pins during the past season, which tied him for fourth in that category on the Tiger squad. Orr was one of the top prospects in the nation in 1984. He joined the Tiger program following a standout prep career at Kittatinny High School in Newton, NJ, where he was a regional champion his final season. Not only is Orr one of Tiger coach Eddie Griffin's top returning athletes, but he also excels in the classroom as evident by his 3.03 cumulative grade point ratio in financial management. He was one of several Clemson athletes to be chosen to the ACC's Academic Honor Roll during the 1985-86 school year.

The Last Word

— by Bob Bradley

Had Clemson not lost to The Citadel in 1931, IPTAY might not have materialized.

The Tigers played the Cadets in Florence and entered the game with a win (N. C. State), a loss (Tennessee) and a tie (Presbyterian). Jess Neely would have even rougher sledding in his first year with young assistants Frank Howard, Bob Jones and Joe Davis.

Clemson lost to The Citadel, 6-0, and would score only two touchdowns the final six games. One of those TD's came against Alabama and Clemson scored first. But the Tide scored the next 74. Only a 0-0 tie with Furman in Greenville made the winter any warmer.

During the lifetime of the late Capt. Frank J. Jervey, he recalled that he, Neely, Davis and Capt. Pete Heffner were sitting in a car outside the stadium talking about The Citadel loss. Heffner was a member of the military staff at Clemson, vitally interested in athletics, and assisted with the coaching in his spare time.

Jervey recalled that it was a downcast group in the car. Heffner said in so many words, "What we ought to do is to get the alumni to give Jess some money and help him with the football team."

"How much do you think we should ask from each person?" Jervey inquired. And Neely was asked how much he thought he'd need.

Jervey remembers picking the figure $50.00 as the amount of the contribution, thereby forming a "50 Club." Neely believed if he could get $10,000 a year he could improve facilities and increase scholarships, giving the Clemson fans a winning football team.

The group talked some more on the subject on the way back to Clemson, and then went their separate ways. Losses to South Carolina, Oglethorpe, VMI and Alabama came before the tie with Furman.

Jervey, who lived in Washington, wrote several Clemson loyalists about the "50 Club," including Dr. Rupert Fike, an Atlanta cancer specialist. On the eve of the 1932 South Carolina game, 12 or 13 met in the Jefferson Hotel in Columbia to talk about assistance to the football team.

Some of the group, including Fike, thought the $50 figure too high. Early athletic department records do show a few $50 contributions, but nowhere close to matching the $10,000 Neely wanted.

Fike's idea was that if a smaller amount were asked, there would be more members, consequently more money.

The Tigers completed the '32 season with a 3-5-1 mark. And Dr. Fike, determined to find a way to strengthen Clemson's athletic program (which was as dark as the national depression at the time) stuck to his guns for the "smaller amount-more members" idea. And to put across his idea, he enlisted the aid of two other Clemson men, J. E. M. Mitchell and Milton Berry, also of Atlanta.

Over a year passed before the first concrete steps were taken and IPTAY was formed. Meanwhile, the 1933 season had come and gone and Neely and his staff were saddled with a 3-6-2 year. The Tigers had won only seven games in three years.

Fike and his group were ready to move!

According to a letter from Fike to Neely, IPTAY was officially formed in Atlanta August 20, 1934. As close as can be determined, there were 185 people who were members of IPTAY its first year, 1934-35, some of them paying with post-dated checks, or $10 worth of milk, potatoes or turnips in exchange for a membership.

But, regardless of how the barter was paid, Neely didn't have another losing season before going to Rice before the 1941 season. Neely's last six years saw the Tigers go 5-4, 6-3, 5-5, 4-4-1, 7-1-1 and 9-1, the latter was Clemson's first bowl team.

The rest of IPTAY's history is deeply etched in Clemson athletic annals. Over $5 million has been raised in each of the last three years; funds given support 11 men's and six women's sports. All-America recognition and other post-season honors are now commonplace with Clemson athletic teams and individuals. Over 3,000 women and men have been awarded an IPTAY scholarship. "IPTAY graduates" dot the world as corporation presidents, research and professional successes, ministers, inventors and just plain good neighbors down the street.

"What if" The Citadel hadn't beaten Clemson in 1931: "What if" a few dedicated people had not persisted in their determination to assist Clemson football: "What if" people hadn't believed in an idea in a depression-torn nation, what if...?
